Lashed—Masked Flogging Sprees
Revived at Macon, Ga.—Four Men Attacked

TULSA, Okla., August 11.—Tulsa faces a threat of martial law today as the result of another kidnapping and flogging.

Whether state action shall follow the latest case of mob activity is expected to depend upon the explanations made to Governor J. C. Walton by local authorities.

Information of the abduction last night of Nathan Hantman, the governor immediately telephoned Police Chief Moran and advised him that he had heard that the police were involved. Chief Moran denied this.

Hantman, said to be of Jewish extraction, was seized by unmasked men in Main street within a block of the police station and taken in an automobile into the country where he was lashed.

Hantman was brought to a local hospital where his condition is said to be serious. He said that he had been

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., August 11.—Pellath said, according to them, that Mrs. Stephen Pellath, 75, today paid with her life for "nagging" her husband, aged 70, when he dunned her for 50 cents to get a shave. Her skull was fractured yesterday when her husband attacked her with a knife to stop "nagging" offering to forego axe. He explained to the police his difficulty in obtaining money for the shave, talking as she cleared away the barber had caused him to lose his temper.

American Zinc Co. To Reopen Plant

HILLSBORO, Ills., Aug. 11.—The American Zinc Co., whose plant has been closed several days because of labor troubles, placed about 100 men at work this morning firing furnaces apparently making ready to reopen the plant under the protection of state troops. The first troops were due to arrive here this forenoon, according to Col. Albert Culbertson, who is in general command. The soldiers will be marched immediately to the plant.

Dedicate Garden Seat at Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, Aug. 11.—Members of the National Society, Daughters of American Colonists, came here today to participate in the dedication of a stone garden seat presented by the society to the town in observance of the 300th anniversary of the arrival of the ship Anne in Plymouth harbor with new members for the colony. The seat has been placed in the Brewster garden. Visitors were entertained in the Harlow House, which was built in 1867 for a granddaughter of Richard Warren, who was a Mayflower passenger and whose daughter arrived on the Anne.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) Her hour of sorrow over, Marion today returned to her accustomed ways.

Gone were the silent crowds that streamed in town yesterday to pay their last respects to the late Warren G. Harding, the gentle, unassuming, newspaper editor, who became president of the United States.

The only physical reminders of yesterday's historical events were the mourning-draped streets and the military patrol in front of the modest vault where the body was placed yesterday.

In the uncertain future, a mausoleum is to be erected to house the dust of the fourth Ohio president to die in office, and when completed, possibly on the top of an Indian mound near the

From Dover, Eng.

DOVER, England, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press.) Another attempt to conquer the English channel, which assumes almost the character of a race, was begun at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon, when two Americans, Charles Toth and Sam Richards of Boston, and Romeo Maciel of Argentina, entered the water and struck out for the French shore.

Enrique Tirabocchi, another Argentinean, was expected to start about the same time from Calais in an attempt to reach the English coast, but when the swimmers left this side no word had been received from him.

Sullivan's Pilot on the Job

A large crowd assembled on the beach near Shakespeare cliff to watch the start of the swim. The bodies of the three men were thickly greased, and Toth and Maciel, but Richards started without oil.

Henry Sullivan, the Lowell, Mass., swimmer who succeeded last week in conquering the channel, was among those who assisted the contestants in preparing for the swim, and Sullivan's pilot, Capt. Joe Smith, is acting as pilot to Toth and Richards. Maciel's pilot is his trainer, Tenover, who has been with the Argentine swimmer here for three months.

A motor boat accompanied each swimmer. All of the trio made good progress during the first hour.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the swimmers were out six miles in the channel, directly off Dover. This was excellent progress for them, and all seemed to be going well, but they were encountering a strong tide and wind and the channel was very choppy, causing experts to express the fear that the men had an especially hard task ahead of them.

MARION, O., Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Harding, of Ohio, is home, sleeping time away near the mother at whose knee his first childish dream of greatness was planned. Before his tomb yesterday, as the chiming verses of the choir sang softly among the trees, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," another tender, brave woman stood with aching heart, her veiled face lifted to the sky. A moment later she stepped a meagre moment into the dim vault where the dead husband's journey of life had ended. Then she turned away, knee to the last, to face the lonely years ahead. She waited not to see the iron gates close softly upon her dead. Harding is home forever from life's

SILENTLY HONORED MEMORY OF DEAD

For one minute yesterday afternoon, from 3 to 3:01 o'clock, not a wheel turned in the vicinity of the square, street car, automobile or horse drawn vehicle, while over the entire Lowell division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway every car came to a full stop at the hour of 3 and remained motionless for the same period of time. It was just another way of doing solemn honor to the memory of the dead president.

Early in the morning Division Superintendent Thomas J. Sayers issued strict orders for the minute of silence and in the square Traffic Officer John McNulty put a similar idea into effect and as the hour hand of Page's clock reached the numeral III, his ruling hands stopped the motion of every automobile within sight of his signal and range of his voice.

It was a thoughtful thing to do.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS DISMISSED

A manslaughter complaint against Manuel G. Romatho was dismissed by Judge Enright in district court today, as Associate Justice Dickman's finding on the inquiry was to the effect that there was no evidence of criminal negligence.

Romatho was the driver of a car that struck five-year-old Jose Silva on Davis street, on July 7, and the child later died at St. John's hospital.

DECREASE IN LOCAL MORTALITY RATE

Lowell's mortality rate decreased substantially this week and sought a low level comparable to the week previous. A total of 24 deaths were reported this week, against 34 last week and 26 the week just before. On this week's number, six were of children under 5 years and five of infants of less than 1 year.

Infectious diseases reported were: Diphtheria, one; scarlet fever, three; measles, one; tuberculosis, six.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Coolidge returned to Washington early today from Marion, where yesterday he attended the funeral of President Harding. He motored directly from his special train to his temporary executive offices at the Willard hotel.

The president's return to his desk was regarded as marking the actual beginning of his task of formulating the policies which are to govern his conduct in office. During the interim since he took the oath of office a week ago, he has been almost constantly engaged with the funeral ceremonies of his predecessor, and he made it a rule to take no decisive action on any public question until the last obsequies were over.

HON. JOHN JACOB ROGERS

MAYOR JOHN J. DONOVAN

Beautiful Service in Memory of Departed President Held at Memorial Auditorium With Congressman John Jacob Rogers as Eulogist—Local Pastors Participate and Choir and Band Unite in Impressive Program of Music

"And so he passed over, and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

A nation's sorrow found full and poignant expression at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium yesterday afternoon when five thousand of the city's people, typifying a perfect cross-section of American citizenship, gave impressive manifestations of grief over the loss of their leader and from their hearts offered prayers for the son of Massachusetts who succeeds him and for the continued security of the national government.

It was the funeral day of Warren Gamaliel Harding, twenty-ninth president of the United States, taken away by the Divine Creator when it seemed he was but entering the full harvest season of life, and there was none too great or none too humble to join in prayerful contemplation of his sacrifice for the country he loved, and to pay tribute to his memory.

Lowell was but a link in an unbroken chain of mourning that fol-

CITY ISSUES CALL FOR BIDS FOR NEW CABLE FOR FIRE ALARM SIGNAL SYSTEM

Under the recommendation of the special committee of the city council that $12,000 should be spent in property.

Ducts called for are 1500 feet of two inch, 150 feet of three inch and 300 feet of four inch. In total, the new cables and ducts, to be submitted, requisition calls for more than 27,000 feet of cable of various sizes.

Due to the varying market prices of copper and rubber, it is not possible to approximate the amount of money involved in the call for bids, at least, of a system which has bids.

"GAS" 16 CENTS GALLON

Latest Development in South Dakota's Gasoline "War"

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press)—One hundred and fifty thousand gallons of gasoline purchased in Chicago Thursday will be shipped at once to nine cities in South Dakota for sale to the public at 16 cents a gallon.

Announcement of this latest development in South Dakota's gasoline "war" was made here today by Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota, who came to Marion to attend the funeral of Former President Harding.

The governor further announced that he is calling upon surrounding states to join the fight.

Governor McMaster said that at a conference with Standard Oil officials in Chicago Thursday, he demanded a five cent reduction in the price of gasoline at filling stations in South Dakota.

"They said they would lose money," said the governor. "My answer to the Standard Oil Co. is 16 cents gasoline for South Dakota."

TWO KILLED IN FEUD

Hiram Middleton and Din-

nie Williams, of Glover Fork, Ky., Shot to Death

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 11.—Hiram Middleton and Dinnie Williams, late residents of Glover Fork, in this county, had settled their personal differences today. Both men were dead. Williams shot and killed Middleton in Kilday, a mining town, seven miles from here late yesterday, after an altercation which followed a card game.

Williams was arrested and placed on a train filled with miners, to be brought here. As the train passed through Verona, a station two miles from Kilday, members of the crowd said to have been friends of the slain man, fired through the windows of a coach, killing Williams instantly. No arrests have been made.

LITTLE MAY CONLEY WILL DANCE AT KASINO

CHARGED WITH ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR
Armand Frechette and Candide Fournier, two young men about 20 years of age, who made a dash for liberty from the police station last night and who were a few minutes later caught in an alley of Prescott street, were arraigned in district court today on a charge of the illegal sale of liquor. Frechette pleaded guilty and Fournier, not guilty, and the cases were continued until August 21st.

The young men were taken into custody about 10:15 o'clock last evening by members of liquor squad, the charge being that they were selling liquor to soldiers. The soldiers were also brought to the police station, and while being questioned there, the two young men and the soldiers all made a dash for the outer door.

One of the young men was caught on the back stairs leading into Packer's dining room, where he had run in the hope of making his escape through another door, probably. The other was caught in the rear of the Sun building.

The chase through the square created a good deal of excitement for a time and a big crowd gathered.

MRS. HARDING RETURNS TO WASHINGTON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—On the train that bore her husband's body across the continent from San Francisco and then to Marion for burial yesterday, Mrs. Harding returned to Washington today to pack up her personal belongings at the White House and to arrange for her final departure from the capital.

As the train, which will have a place in history by virtue of the momentous journey it had traveled, approached Washington to be broken up finally for other uses, the widow of the president called to her and every member of the party which had made the pilgrimage to Alaska and back and thanked each one individually for remaining with her "until the end." She appeared still to be bearing up courageously after yesterday's ordeal in Marion.

She was driven directly to the White House where it was said that only a few days would be required for her to finally close out her affairs there and take leave of the mansion which had been her home since 1921.

Judge Enright Comments On Effects of Moonshine
Continued

Patrick Enright and Catherine O'Sell, both charged with drunkenness, were each given suspended sentences of one month. John E. Blane was sent up for one month and Thomas F. Shea was given two months. Thomas Blane was sentenced to the state farm, a suspended sentence being given to the other two. Mrs. Enright pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and his case was continued until Monday. Thomas McCallery also pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and his case was continued for two weeks.

Frank A. Egan was charged with drunkenness, and after lengthy deliberation of his case the court finally gave him a suspended sentence of six months.

Other Offenders
Valter Kozak of Lawrence pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and a fine of $100 was imposed.

William Ferrara of Somerville was charged with drunkenness, but there was evidence against him to the effect that he committed a series of robberies and a sum of money from a bank and a car of Wilbur. The court suggested that a complaint alleging larceny be sworn against the defendant, and the case was accordingly continued until next Wednesday. If restitution is made in the meantime, this will be taken into consideration by the court.

Peter Rodopoulos pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegally keeping liquor and the case was continued until August 21st.

Karl Zarembka, charged with illegal keeping, and Webster Newell, charged with an illegal sale of liquor, had their cases also continued until August 21st.

VALUABLE HOUND KILLED
A valuable hound believed to be owned by James Stans of 358 Adams street, was killed in a hunting party yesterday afternoon after being struck by an automobile. The machine, which was owned by James Clark of 366 Chelmsford street, was being operated by Joseph A. Dionne of 543 Concord street. It is claimed that the dog ran into the path of the car and was struck, sustaining a broken back. Mr. Dionne ended the dog's misery.

and entertaining mixture of action, love, scenes and humor.

"Love, Love, Love" one of the new plays by Rupert Hughes comedy drama with Colleen Moore, Antonio Moreno and other stars in the cast, will be the next feature on the bill. The play has a decided touch of humor in the story of Betty Perla Quaranta, daughter of an Italian organ grinder, who is given a vaudeville engagement in a vaudeville house. It is so happy that the star of the sketch becomes so overburdened with flesh that she cannot longer portray the part assigned to her, and Perla is selected as her successor. The director of the act becomes a victim of the girl, but she turns down his advances and to show his appreciation he tries his best to get Betty to marry him. In trying to accomplish this he resorts to the rather unusual task of feeding Perla with food that will bring about extra weight. Then the fun begins. When it ends, and now, is best told by the picture itself. Don't miss it if you like a good laugh.

For the next three days of the week the feature will be "Temptation" featuring Eva Novak and Bryant Washburn, appearing in the principal roles. The theme of the offering is the desire on the part of a young couple for the comforts and luxuries such as only the wealthy can afford. A modest salary and a wife, a country girl, suddenly find themselves in possession of a million dollars and must adjust to these things which the young people believe make up happiness, results in a series of strong situations.

"Telling with Honor" is to be the other big event on the program for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It's a thrilling, dramatic creation containing all of the pleasing elements found in a high grade photoplay, including a phase of baseball life and slights of the national pastime. You will find this offering a very happy and the comedy and action, as well as the musical numbers help to make the offering most acceptable.

Armand Frechette and Candide Fournier, two young men about 20 years of age, who made a dash for liberty from the police station last night and who were a few minutes later caught in an alley of Prescott street, were arraigned in district court today on a charge of the illegal sale of liquor. Frechette pleaded guilty and Fournier, not guilty, and the cases were continued until August 21st.

The young men were taken into custody about 10:15 o'clock last evening by members of liquor squad, the charge being that they were selling liquor to soldiers. The soldiers were also brought to the police station, and while being questioned there, the two young men and the soldiers all made a dash for the outer door.

One of the young men was caught on the back stairs leading into Packer's dining room, where he had run in the hope of making his escape through another door, probably. The other was caught in the rear of the Sun building.

The chase through the square created a good deal of excitement for a time and a big crowd gathered.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—On the train that bore her husband's body across the continent from San Francisco and then to Marion for burial yesterday, Mrs. Harding returned to Washington today to pack up her personal belongings at the White House and to arrange for her final departure from the capital.

As the train, which will have a place in history by virtue of the momentous journey it had traveled, approached Washington to be broken up finally for other uses, the widow of the president called to her and every member of the party which had made the pilgrimage to Alaska and back and thanked each one individually for remaining with her "until the end." She appeared still to be bearing up courageously after yesterday's ordeal in Marion.

She was driven directly to the White House where it was said that only a few days would be required for her to finally close out her affairs there and take leave of the mansion which had been her home since 1921.

Patrick Enright and Catherine O'Sell, both charged with drunkenness, were each given suspended sentences of one month. John E. Blane was sent up for one month and Thomas F. Shea was given two months. Thomas Blane was sentenced to the state farm, a suspended sentence being given to the other two. Mrs. Enright pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and his case was continued until Monday. Thomas McCallery also pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and his case was continued for two weeks.

Frank A. Egan was charged with drunkenness, and after lengthy deliberation of his case the court finally gave him a suspended sentence of six months.

Other Offenders
Valter Kozak of Lawrence pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and a fine of $100 was imposed.

William Ferrara of Somerville was charged with drunkenness, but there was evidence against him to the effect that he committed a series of robberies and a sum of money from a bank and a car of Wilbur. The court suggested that a complaint alleging larceny be sworn against the defendant, and the case was accordingly continued until next Wednesday. If restitution is made in the meantime, this will be taken into consideration by the court.

Peter Rodopoulos pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegally keeping liquor and the case was continued until August 21st.

Karl Zarembka, charged with illegal keeping, and Webster Newell, charged with an illegal sale of liquor, had their cases also continued until August 21st.

VALUABLE HOUND KILLED
A valuable hound believed to be owned by James Stans of 358 Adams street, was killed in a hunting party yesterday afternoon after being struck by an automobile. The machine, which was owned by James Clark of 366 Chelmsford street, was being operated by Joseph A. Dionne of 543 Concord street. It is claimed that the dog ran into the path of the car and was struck, sustaining a broken back. Mr. Dionne ended the dog's misery.

GIVE COOLIDGE A CHANCE—BORAH

Senator From Idaho Pleads

That He Be Given Opportunity to Make Good

Logical Man for Republican

Presidential Nomination in Next Campaign

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 11.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, here last night, said he believed President Coolidge was the logical man for the republican presidential nomination in the next campaign, and called upon the public to give him a chance to make good. "The senator said:

"The circumstances have made Calvin Coolidge president. There are some very difficult problems demanding attention. "The agricultural situation is extremely serious. The coal problem is in my opinion, will soon be acute. Transportation also requires consideration, and the foreign situation will bring into view the mad policies now plunging Europe into deeper misery.

"If he makes good, or shows in the next few months that he is making good, he will certainly be nominated. What the people want is results. If Coolidge gives results, that is all there is to it. I think he is an able man. I want to see him given a chance to make good.

"No political party can survive the next campaign which does not have a clear, definite, constructive and inspiring program. If there ever was a time when the office should, and, in my opinion, will seek the man, it is now. I have never seen so much political explosives being around to be touched off as right now. The voters do not care two cents for parties or individuals. They want results. Give the man at the helm a chance."

Nation's Chief Laid to Rest

high places, where the restless, heavy winds of ambition blow, home beneath Ohio soil, for above him the vaulted roof is mantled with grass grown gold—home among the friends and neighbors of his youth, the kindly people of a kindly town. Time is ended for him, and the shouting and clamor that surround the great are done.

Soldiers On Guard

It was a long road to that silent vault about which there closed last night a guard of the citizen soldiery of his own state. There was no solemn ceremony of the nation's and the people's making to mark the way. But it ended simply, calmly and as the dead would have led it and.

Aside from the multitude that waited the long way from his father's home to the vault and those others close packed to make a living setting for funeral rites, there was no much to mark it as the burial of one who had held highest power in his grasp. There were the tanned men of his guard from the sister services of the nation, the admiral and the general who formed his honor escort, the friend and comrade who now is president in his stead, the colleagues of his grief-stricken cabinet. That was all except at the last distant murmur as he came to his tomb and the soft tones of a harp, sounding a soldier's requiem as the gates were closed.

Otherwise the funeral service was that of a simple and much loved citizen of Ohio. For all Ohio seemed to have come to bid him farewell. Thronged whose number will never be known passed beside his casket and looked their last upon the dead face before the time for the last journey came.

From his father's house he went out again, carried by the steadfast men who have stood constantly to guard a dead commander. No solemn music of bands or military pageant marked his path save the great flag of the president drooping in mourning and carried before him to the gates of the tomb.

President and Cabinet

In cars behind the simple hearse came President Coolidge and the cabinet, the friends and close friends, Chief Justice Taft and General Pershing. Last to leave the memorial house was Mrs. Harding in black and with veil drawn close, and just ahead of her walked the old father, his face plainly showing the agony of his grief. Through the silent, face-walled street the cortege passed and around the corner to the quiet cemetery. As it came towards the gates the guns spoke afar in honor.

The vault stands ivy-wrapped and set back into the gentle hill with little space before it. So the funeral train was halted at a distance and the casket lifted down to be carried to a resting place before the open entrance of the tomb. Already a group of senators who knew this dead president under the capital dome before he passed to the White House were already gathered in waiting, in line across the roadway that runs before the entrance. With them stood the comrades of campaigning days, Ford, Edison and Firestone.

"Abide With Me" is Sung
The cabinet family came to stand closer, at the foot of the casket with their new chief standing sorrowfully among them. The admiral in planning white lined the way to the left, with the little party of intimates and friends who made the Alaska journey that death broke so suddenly. Then came Dr. Harding with the snows of his 80 years showing on his bare head, and then the brave widow walking to her place at the right of the casket, with Secretary Christian and the members of the grief-stricken family.

PRAYER AT CEMETERY

Rev. Dr. Swank Delivers

Prayer at Final Services for

Late President

Final Services Begin
The last service for Warren Harding had begun.
Prayers followed, spoken by an old friend of the dead president, the Scriptural passages that hourten men in sorrow were read and again the choir sang the last hymn of this simple, reverent service. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and as the softly blending voices came to the last chords, Mrs. Harding slowly raised her veiled face and stood as though in prayer to him above that the dead husband who in a moment would be shut away from her forever, might know that peace beyond understanding which God's mercy holds out to humanity at the last.

The voices died away and with lifted hand, Bishop Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church, pronounced the benediction.
"Now unto him that is able to keep us from falling, and to present us faultless before the presence of his glory, with exceeding joy, to the only wise God, Our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now, and forever more. Amen."

Nation Silent in Sorrow

The funeral party and the hundreds who lined them about stood motionless and silent a moment. Then the soldiers and sailors and Marines who have kept the honor watch all the way from San Francisco and who alone have carried his casket, stepped forward. Facing the tomb, they lifted it gently and slowly and bore it in through the shadowy doorway, and at that moment the nation stood silent in sorrow.

Back to the dim depth of the crypt of stone and earth the hearse went with their burden, then turned to file out again and stand still at attention in double line forming a corridor of honor.

Mrs. Harding raised her veil slightly and swept the moisture from her brow and lips. It was still and hot where the light breeze was shut off by the crowding, sorrowful people about her, but it did not seem that even now it was tears she wiped away.

Widow's Final Farewell

As the hearse came out, she leaned to whisper to Secretary Christian. Then she stepped forward on his arm to pass just within the ivy-covered doorway beyond which lay the flower-draped casket, hardly visible in the dim vault. She halted for a moment in this final farewell, then turned to walk slowly down the roadway to the waiting motor car that rolled her swiftly away.

After she had gone, President Coolidge with Mrs. Coolidge stepped to her place within the doorway, then stood for a moment. As they turned to pass out, the great iron barrier was swung softly shut and Warren Harding was at home forever in the town he loved.

Down beyond where a green lawn stretched under the trees were the khaki tents of the guardsmen. As the sorrowful company before the vault moved away to the waiting cars, the guardsmen again took their places before the vault, flanking with the beauty of the flowers that blanketed it about. And the hundreds who had stood to watch the simple ceremony that commended a simple American to the keeping of his God, drifted slowly away to leave him alone when dark fell for the sleep that will never end.

NO. CHELMSFORD CHURCH SERVICES

The residents of North Chelmsford united with the rest of the country yesterday in observing mourning day and accordingly practically all places of business throughout that section of the town were closed for the day. There was no public demonstration, but the Catholic residents of the village assembled in St. John's church at 1 o'clock and participated in impressive memorial services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Francis F. Kenney. Hymns for the dead were sung and prayers were offered by the officiating clergyman. During the service Miss Helen M. Quigley presided at the organ.

The memorial service in the Centre village was conducted at 2:30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. Rev. Charles H. Ellis officiated and the service consisted of the singing of hymns by a quartet and addresses by Walter Verham, Rev. E. C. Bartlett and Rev. John G. Lovell, the latter, pastor of the Central Congregational church.

In the forenoon there was service at St. Salvi's church, conducted by Rev. Wilson Waters. Hymns were sung by the choir and prayers were offered by the pastor.

executive will be to select a secretary to the president to succeed George H. Christian, who resigned yesterday. Few other immediate changes are expected in the personnel of the administration. All of the cabinet members will stay for the present at least.

For today Mr. Coolidge had on his calendar list a number of conferences with leaders in Congress and others who desired to lay before him information and advice on many subjects.

Faces Big Problems

AROUND PRESIDENTIAL TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (By the Associated Press.)—Calvin Coolidge early today was fast approaching Washington prepared to come to grips with the new duties which face him since his elevation to the presidency through the death of Warren G. Harding.

And his former chief of staff was laid to rest, the new chief magistrate sat aside all tasks but those pertaining to the funeral plans.
Today, however, he was faced with the need for appointing a successor to George H. Christian, Jr., who resigned yesterday as secretary to the president as soon as citizens of Marion, Ohio, had entombed the body of the slain president and brought him into public view. Mr. Coolidge to date has not given a hint of his possible choice, despite the fact that political savants in Washington had been bantering for several

Prayer at Final Services for

Late President

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rev. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth M. E. church of which Mrs. Harding is a member, delivered the following prayer at final services for President Harding at the cemetery:
"Almighty God, father of our Lord Jesus Christ, giver of every good and every perfect gift, the father of the lights, in whom there is no variableness or shadow of turning, we come with confidence to Thee even in such a time as this because we know that Thou art not only a God of greatness and of power, but also a God of mercy and of love.

"We thank Thee for our land nation and for Thy guiding hand upon it from its inception until this hour. We thank Thee for what this man, our friend and brother, has meant to the progress and development of our nation. We feel that he, in imitation of Him whom he called Master and Lord, has laid down his life in the service of his country and we believe that he has received Thy 'well done'."

"May Thy blessing rest upon him who assumes the vast responsibility of taking the helm and guiding the future of this land of ours. May Thy blessing rest upon our nation and its people and upon our city in this time of great bereavement. Give Thy blessing to the aged father, who offered his own life in the service of his country and now has given this noble son. Sustain and support him in this great trial and sorrow, and guide his feet in the paths of peace until his way shall end in the land beyond the grave where he can meet again the dear ones whom he has loved long since and lost a while. Bless the other members of the family and may they feel Thee near. May Thy special blessing rest upon Mrs. Harding, the wife of our loved dead, who lives to sustain the loss of this devoted companion, who journeyed with her up the steps of life until they reached the heights together. May she now bear Thee say 'Fear thou not for I am with thee; be not dismayed for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right arm of my righteousness. May she know that the eternal God is her refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms."

"When these solemn rites are over and she goes back to walk the ways of life alone, may she realize that she is not alone for Thou hast said to all Thy children I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee, and may her noble example of confidence and trust in God be an inspiration to all those who are called to walk with her 'via dolorosa'."

"May the peace of God descend upon all hearts and may we all learn to live, not for ourselves, but for each other and for the good that we may do, as did this noble man and woman." ritheily

days with the names of Edward T. Clark, who served him as secretary while he was vice president, and Benjamin F. Felt, former Boston newspaperman, now in the employ of Frank W. Starnes of Boston, and an intimate friend of the Coolidges.

The resignation of Brig. Gen. Sawyer, as personal physician to the president, may reach the temporary White House in the New Willard hotel any day. Mr. Coolidge also has kept silent on this appointment, but Major James F. Coupal, medical corps officer stationed in Washington, who previously has attended Mr. Coolidge, was selected to accompany him to Marion.

Mr. Coolidge started back to Washington late yesterday and officers who had restrained themselves in respect to the memory of Mr. Harding acclaimed him as he passed through Akron, Ohio, and Newcastle, Pa. In response to applause of those who gathered around his private car, Mr. Coolidge appeared on the platform with the first lady of the land and was roundly cheered.

Several of those who want an extra session already have placed their views before the president and those who oppose the idea also have been heard. But in none, so far as can be learned, has he indicated a decision.

Advocates of immediate action have based their pleas on the necessity of quickly enacting legislation to help the farmers in the marketing of their crops and to settle the coal question. Those adverse to the idea believe nothing can be gained from an extra session at this time.

Before Mr. Coolidge went to Marion, Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor leader from Minnesota, told him that congress should be convened, but on the same day Representative John M. Nelson, republican, of Wisconsin, a member of the progressive bloc, said a call would do no good. Other members have expressed similar divergent views.

Representative Young, republican, North Dakota, called on the president Thursday and told him that action was necessary immediately on his territory to save a very serious situation. Farmers, he said, were in a desperate plight with wheat selling below the cost of production. He also said that 80 per cent of the country was greatly interested in coal legislation. Revival of the United States Grain corporation, was favored, he said, as one of the remedies possible.

Numerous petitions have come to the president from the northwest. Mr. Young said, urging immediate action.

The members of the funeral party entered the waiting automobiles, following President Coolidge according to their rank, and the funeral cortege again wound its way out of the beautiful cemetery, leaving the nation's beloved dead to sleep until the morning of the resurrection.

Mrs. Harding Greets New President

Continued

"Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge arose to greet Mrs. Harding.
"Mr. President I greet you," said Mrs. Harding in a clear, distinct voice, as she held out her hand to the man who succeeded her husband.
"Then turning to Mrs. Coolidge, she wished her success in the new mission of the White House."

The new president, Chief Justice Taft and Attorney General Clegg, and when Secretary Hughes stretched out his hand, she grasped it and said: "My Secretary, she could say no more. Tears filled the eyes of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Taft. Tears filled the eyes of Mrs. Harding."

The widow, continuing, pictured the funeral procession as it services at the cemetery from the viewpoint of a member of the office staff.
"The slow procession wound its way through streets where about midday, a great movement and whisper, so great was their affection for Mr. Harding and their sense of loss over his death and their desire to sympathize with the stricken family."

Word of God Read

"Then recently the Word of God was read, telling of the glorious city where there is no sorrow, no sighing, no pain, nor tears, no death, no parting. Then the prayer, asking for the mercy and comfort of the Saviour.
"As the prayer ended, Mrs. Harding was heard to say a fervent 'Amen' as though she too believed that God's grace was sufficient to meet her time of need."

"The strains of 'Nearer, My God, to Thee' came from the choir, hidden behind a marble canopy of hushes.
"Then 'Te Deum' were sounded. The casket was carried into the vault.

"Mrs. Harding entered to spend a last moment with her beloved dead. President and Mrs. Coolidge followed for a moment. Then the iron gates were closed.
"The members of the funeral party entered the waiting automobiles, following President Coolidge according to their rank, and the funeral cortege again wound its way out of the beautiful cemetery, leaving the nation's beloved dead to sleep until the morning of the resurrection."

GALA DAY AT AIKEN STREET PLAYGROUNDS

Several hundred children attended the gala day held at the Aiken street playground Thursday afternoon. It was a happy day for the children who trooped to the refreshment stand where ice cream cones were distributed. Over 1000 cones were given out while later in the afternoon tonic was also served.

At various stages of the program children gathered on the grandstand and spelled the name of those in charge of the playgrounds, the names of Mayor John J. Donovan and Superintendent of Parks John W. Kernan, as well as those who had donated in various ways to the success of the affair.

The mysterious Mr. X who paraded the grounds during the afternoon proved very popular with the children, and Miss Annette Laurier finally proved the winner in recognizing him.

Kites and balloons were flown during the course of the afternoon and this proved quite an exciting amusement.

At 2 o'clock the children appeared in the grand march, each dressed with an original costume made the week before on the grounds. Miss Diana Hubert won the prize for the most attractive costume.

The pie-eating contest brought many cries of delight both by the contestants and the onlookers. George Lavallee, with a badly stained face came out the winner.

Great enthusiasm was shown in the various dashes. Miss Ida Landry won the 50 yard dash for small girls; Rudolph Boudreau for the small boys; Annette Laurier won the 50 yard dash for older girls.

A moving picture program was shown during the evening and proved most interesting.

A number of boxes of candy were awarded to the winners and the day closed with a group of happy, although tired, children. The gala day proved a great success and served to arouse interest in the Aiken street playground.

The affair was in charge of Alphonse Achin and his assistants, Misses Ruth Whetton and Sadie Melancon. Those who also assisted in various ways were Arthur Marchand, Mrs. Eva Laurier and Marguerite Turgeon.

ELECTRIC IRONS CAUSE MANY FIRES

A large number of fires in recent years, have been caused by electric irons left on ironing boards with the current turned on, according to a recent government report.

Asbestos pads should be provided for irons and the current should be turned off when the ironing is finished.

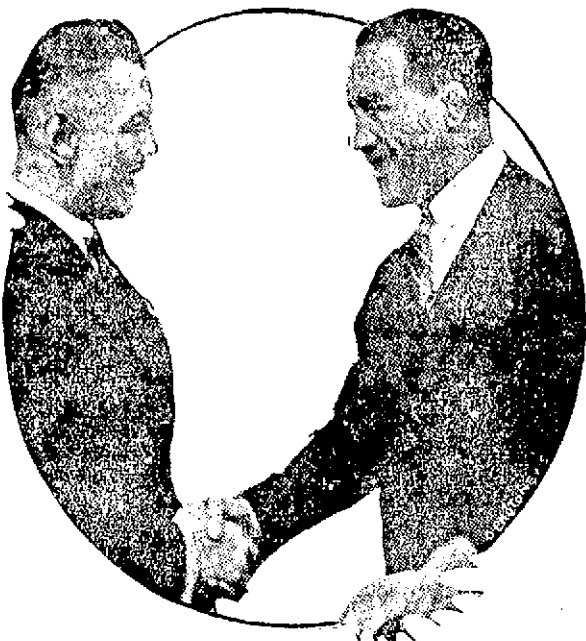

Electric coffee percolators, chafing dishes and other utensils used for boiling liquids become overheated and may cause fires if left connected after the liquid has been removed or boiled away.

Many of these articles consume as much electricity as all the electric light bulbs in the house, so it is in the interests of economy as well as safety to keep them turned off when not in use.

Since these appliances are handled when the current is turned on only reliable apparatus with all current carrying parts properly insulated should be used to avoid accidental shock.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

A Ford touring car, while was stolen from Lakeview on July 3, was recovered in Hudson, N. H., yesterday by the owner, A. P. Daigle of North Chatham. The chief of the Hudson police informed Mr. Daigle that he expected to make an arrest shortly in connection with the theft of the car.

JOHNNY BIDS CRIQUI FAREWELL

Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, came to bid au revoir to Eugene Criqui, his fallen foe, when the jaunty little French battler sailed for home. Who said Johnny wasn't a real sportsman?

MANY ACCIDENTAL DEATHS AT HOME

Although we hear much about the hazards of industry and the perils of the street created by the automobile, it is rather startling to learn that half of the 50,000 accidental deaths in the United States last year occurred in the home. No figures are available to show the slight and serious accidents which happened in homes.

Falls are responsible for a large percentage of household casualties.

Falls from shaky ladders and piano stools and other substitutes for ladders.

Falls downstairs because of defective steps and handrails.

Falls caused by carelessness and neglect.

These and other home accidents may be prevented by a little forethought.

Danger lurks everywhere in the streets. A hole in the sidewalk, a broken board, a banana peel or an icy spot on the pavement, may upset you and injure more than your dignity. It may throw you in the way of a passing automobile or car.

When walking on the sidewalk or crossing the street don't become too absorbed in the sporting page or the comics. Don't lose yourself in thought or conversation. Don't get off a street-car backward.

Take no chances in beating a car to a crossing. You may save a minute but you may lose weeks in a hospital.

Gasoline and Its Dangers

There is always danger in cleaning clothing with gasoline in the home. If it is done the room should be thoroughly ventilated and kept free from flames and sparks. Frequently the friction of the clothing especially silk, wool or fur, will generate a spark and cause an explosion.

Gasoline should never be stored in the house even in safety cans. It should be kept in the garage or shed and the can marked plainly "gasoline."

Running an engine in a closed garage may generate enough deadly carbon monoxide gas to cause sickness or even death.

Use the same care in handling gasoline as you would gunpowder.

Then Down That Nail

If you see a nail projecting from a board, hammer it down before you or someone else steps upon it. If you are unfortunate enough to step upon it go to a doctor at once and have it treated.

A nail puncture is usually deep and hard to sterilize therefore first aid is not always effective.

Any nail whether bright or rusty may cause an infection if it penetrates into your skin. When you step on a nail, the microbes, germs or bugs on that nail enter through your system. They may cause infection, blood poisoning, lockjaw and even death within 48 hours.

Look before you step, so that projecting nail out of the way before someone steps on it.

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF LATE PRESIDENT

At the regular meeting of Lowell council 72 Knights of Columbus, held Thursday evening in the council rooms on Burton st., a committee consisting of Edw. F. Saunders, Thomas J. Fitzgerald and Michael J. Quinn, was named to draw up suitable resolutions on the death of the late president, Warren G. Harding, one copy to be sent to Mrs. Harding and the other entered on the records.

It was also voted to send a message of loyalty to the new president, Calvin Coolidge. Members of the order were requested to take part in the memorial exercises in Memorial Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

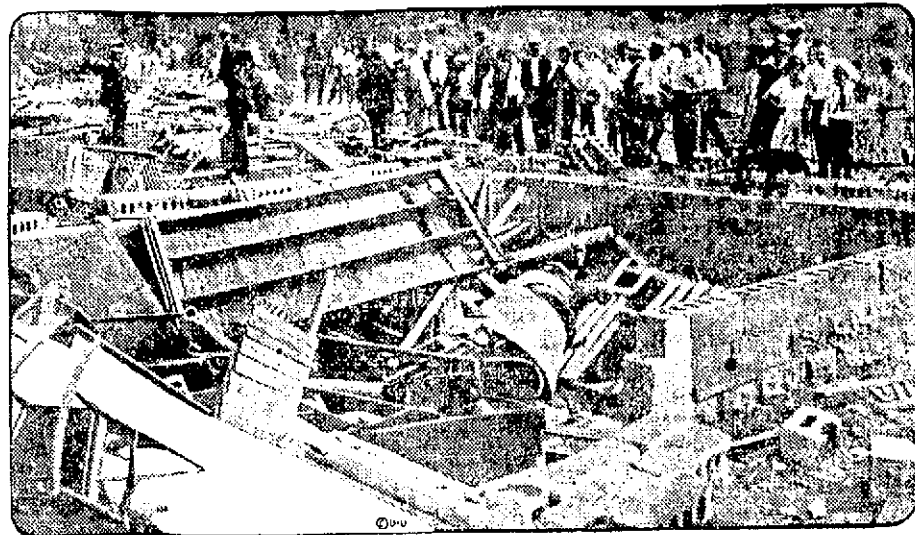

Routine business was transacted with Deputy Grand Knight Roger J. Lang in the chair.

SERVICES HELD IN NORTH BILLERICA

Services in memory of President Harding were held in St. Andrew's church, North Billerica at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the church was crowded with people of all denominations who came to add their prayers to like prayers offered in all the churches of the nation for the welfare of the country. Rev. Fr. Charles J. Sullivan, pastor of the church, officiated and the church choir rendered appropriate music.

The Talbot mills and the No. Billerica Co., closed Thursday night to reopen next Monday while the majority of the stores in town closed during the afternoon hours yesterday.

NEWS AND NOTES OF FASHIONS AND ACTIVITIES INTERESTING TO WOMEN

Enlists Women for Future War Work, Shooting Biscuits Instead of Bullets

ANITA PHIPPS

BY HARRY R. HUNT
N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—In the next war—if there is one—watch out for the women!

Their part in any future conflict will not be a haphazard, hastily organized effort. It will be a thoroughly worked-out program designed to co-ordinate the last defense of the nation to the last defense of the woman.

While large groups of women are organizing "No More War" clubs and are endeavoring to prevent any future conflict, at least one woman is on the job getting ready to make women an efficient factor in the next war should the pacifists fail to perpetuate peace.

This young woman is Miss Anita Phipps, officially she is director of women's relations, United States war department, and a member of the army's general staff.

Possibly the hardest job of all army heads have had in a long time was when Miss Phipps was named by Secretary Weeks as a member of the general staff.

Miss Phipps doesn't believe women should shoulder a gun to fight. Men can march farther and aim straighter, she concedes. But in services of support, shooting biscuits instead of bullets, in jobs leaving every able-bodied man for front-line duty, and in bucking up the morale of the boys in the barracks, she believes women can go even much farther than they went in our recent brush with Germany.

In the meantime, during periods of peace, she hopes to develop, through women, a new attitude toward and interest in the boys in the service.

"The boys are every bit as much humans in peace times as they are heroes in war," she says, "and deserve to be treated accordingly."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."

Why follow fashion doggedly year in and year out even when fashion deserts lines that are meant for you? One French designer, Lanvin, believes in creating frocks that are youthful, always picturesque and charming.

For the slim figure there is the slightly bouffant style of dress, which is ruffled and flounced this season. The color and the material of which it is made will do much toward assuring a youthful appearance.

For the more mature figure there is the long bodice waist with the tiered skirt. The tiers edged with ribbon or lace will make it the more attractive. Much depends on the trimming—make it as light as possible if you would carry out its youthful lines.

Hot? Think of Fur and Keep Cool—It Wouldn't Do To Try On Fuzzy Winter Wear Just Now, or See Price Tags!

BY MARIAN HALE
N.E.A. Service Writer

NEW YORK, August 11.—August, besides being the hottest month of the twelve, is the one which custom and the fur dealers have consecrated to the art of laying the fur coat.

And, indeed, perhaps one of the best ways in which to forget the heat is to ramble around in a fur store, viewing garments designed for zero weather. But don't try on too many in a single summer's day!

The thought alone of a new fur coat is usually exciting enough to take the dormal woman's mind off the temperature. This season's models are practically distracting. They wrap, drape, skirt or become work at your command, and they reach heights of loveliness never before attained.

In general, the straight silhouette is adhered to, though there are plenty of circular and flaring models for those who prefer. Flounciness, godets and shirring mark a model as essentially of this season. Cape styles are rarely seen except in the very elaborate wraps for evening.

The mandarin sleeve prevails. Hudson seal and caracul are the most popular, medium-priced furs. These are usually trimmed with a contrasting fur such as squirrel, lynx, fish and fox.

Squirrel, with loss of a reputation for service than seal, but extremely becoming, is seen in combination with pointed fox, dyed squirrel and Australian opossum.

In the short sport coats, bordered racoon is conspicuous, and so are leopard, ocelot and nutria.

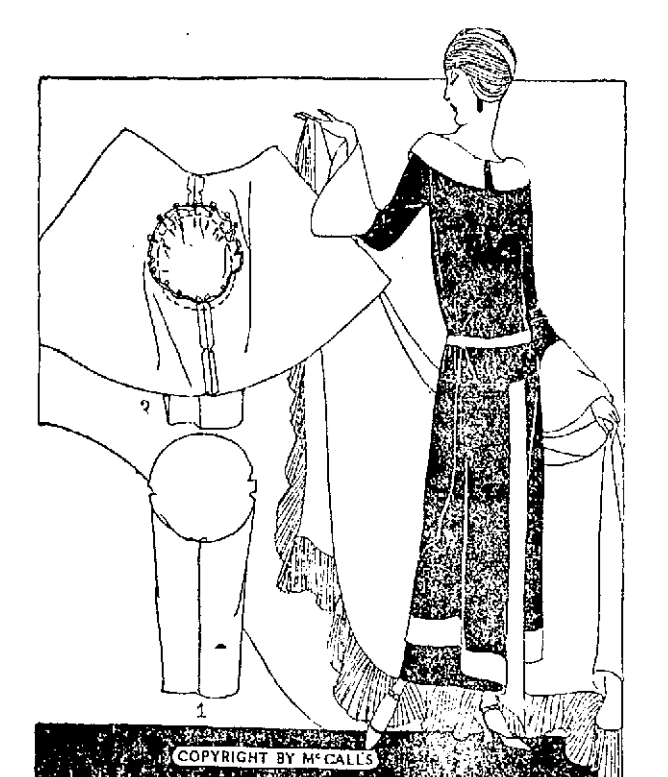

Among the most gorgeous wraps, ermine, Persian lamb, mink and sable are treated as they never have been before. Tailings of velvet and simple divinity are new this season. There is a tendency in the plain coats to keep the lining the color of the fur, but often it is beautifully embroidered in self color, or sometimes a band of figured or brocaded silk is added about the hem.

The average length of this season's fur coat is 45 inches, but those for elaborate wear are 50, while those for evening are sometimes 52. The short models come shorter, from 45 to 48, and the long ones may vary as much as 12 inches. It is very important in a short fur coat to find the proper length, and this is regulated entirely by the stature of the wearer.

Fur dealers are looking forward to a fat year and are stressing the luxurious models with price tags that run into four figures.

No Difficulty in Setting Sleeves Into Armholes

Copyright by McCall's

The smartest gowns this season have the set-in sleeve. There has always been a belief that setting in a sleeve was the Waterloo of home dressmakers.

As a matter of fact, sleeves can be put in with no difficulty and great success if one follows the first principles of a correct pattern. The sketches here show a dress with the set-in sleeve and the two steps necessary for correctly fitting sleeve in an armhole.

Figure 1 shows the sleeve, seam joined, notches matched. Figure 2 shows how to pin the sleeve to the armhole with the corresponding notches matching. This is done by holding the sleeve toward you and easing in any fullness. It must then be basted and stitched. After that it should be neatly bound.

GREASE STAIN
If grease or oil has been spilled on the matting, make a thin paste with fuller's earth and cold water and spread thickly on the spot. When it dries lay a paper over it and let it stand two or three days. Then brush off the earth and the stain will have disappeared.

WAXING WAISTLINE
Designers are at odds over the correct position for the waistline on coming cool weather costumes. Put it anywhere between the extremely low hip line and the natural waistline and you'll be correct.

AUTUMN COLORS
Prominent colors for this fall will be smoke gray, seal brown, heaver, sailor blue, camel's hair and terracotta.

MASQUE VAIL
Among the great and varied vogue of this fall is the masque veil, with two almond-shaped openings for the eyes to peer through. But the wearer's eyes must be beautiful to make the effect attractive.

BIAS STRIPES IN SILK
The newest contribution to the silk designs is the Rayon stripes which run on the bias. These are used for trimming and for whole frocks.

They are strikingly set in the midst of the fashion for oriental dignities are no more than it is to be expected.

The smartly dressed woman may wear them with the best reputation that they will make her conspicuous.

SLANTING LINES
The latest fashion note, with regard to design, is the tendency toward slanting lines. This is marked not only in the gowns of the coming season, but in the jackets and fur coats.

FAVORITE LINES
Most of the favorite lines in dress remain top autumn. The silhouette—skirt, bodice, neckline and sleeves remain practically unchanged.

Law Man's Profession? Women Show Progress as Legal Ladder Climbers

MISS CELIA GAVIN

(N.E.A. Service Writer)
THE DAILIES, Oct. 11.—In the whole of all men's activities, the law is the most progressive. The law is the prevailing opinion here.

To prove this, attention is directed to Miss Celia Gavin of this city. Miss Gavin is city attorney for The Dailies and believed to be the only woman in full charge of a city's legal affairs west of the Rockies.

Her duties include municipal financial transactions, authorizations and bond sales, besides being adviser to the city council and conducting city prosecutions.

One of Miss Gavin's greatest accomplishments was codification of the city charter and ordinances. This was in almost hopeless confusion and contradiction when she took them and systematized them into a readable code. It took her two years of steady hard work, but she took full credit for her effort. She came across many precedents and practices which she has found helpful in her legal practice. Yet Miss Gavin will all her off-duty hours seem to make most progress in the law is the prevailing opinion here.

MISS LILLIAN MOORE

And besides all this Miss Gavin is an active participant in the political activities of the democratic party in Oregon.

Another Example
Miss Gavin isn't alone, by far, in her successful climb up the legal ladder. There's Miss Lillian Moore of Little Rock, Ark., to whom her admirers point as another example.

Miss Moore hasn't progressed as far as Miss Gavin, but she's not so fully experienced. Yet Miss Moore is assistant attorney general for the state of Arkansas, she presides the state's cases and is considered one of the most valuable members of the staff.

Before taking up law Miss Moore was a teacher in the high schools of Texas, Kansas, and Little Rock.

Only Alley Cur, But He's
Some Dog for A' That

"JUST A MUTT"

By N. E. A. Service
KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 9.—He was only an overgrown, mangy, flea-bitten alley hound—homeless, friendless and hungry. Drooping tail, fawning eyes, defeat of ears, uncertain gate marked him as nobody's dog.

Along came a little boy exploring unknown things and places. He saw the pup. And the pup saw him—primal making for a duo of joy.

Blind to the devil's ugliness, the lad bent over and gathered the dog in his arms.

"Puppy, oh puppy, he my dog," he begged.

And the alley hound went home with him. For nearly a week, the boy, Joe Marline, a son of Kenosha's "Little Italy," practically lived with that dog. Then came the municipal dog show. Every kid brought a dog. All the canine aristocracy turned out.

But it was the day of the alley cur. When the show was over, Joe went running home a-singing, with the drooping pup a-burbling at his side.

"Just a Mutt," for that was the name the boy had given him—had won first prize.

Joe was happy. And so was his alley hound, with the blue ribbon around his neck.

The Looker-on in Lowell

Harry S. New, postmaster general, has met the business men of Massachusetts more than half way when he urges them to accept his invitation to attend the Massachusetts postal convention to be held in Boston in the fall on that occasion a conference of postal workers of the state will be assembled to discuss the state for the improvement of the postal service. Postmaster General New in a letter to local Postmaster DeWitt calls the personal contact to be obtained by the attendance of business men, or large users of the mails at this convention. The program will consist of one afternoon session, preceded or followed by a special meeting at which the postal workers shall meet the business men who are expected to go prepared with any suggestions they may have.

"The meeting will be reported," says Mr. New, "and they may rest assured that anything they say will receive careful consideration. We want their suggestions, believing that from those experienced in business can best be secured those practical ideas that will enable us to put more business in the postal service."

Why isn't this an exceptional opportunity for large users of the mails throughout the state to propose changes and improvements beneficial either to their own business or the general efficiency of the mail service?

In Lowell, for instance, the Looker-on has talked with many business men who have had probable solutions of what seemed to them desirable conditions existing in the postal service. One man I have in mind is always complaining about the receipt of mail from New York claiming that it should arrive at his place of business anywhere from two to three hours earlier than it does. Still another man claims that there should be no more delivery of mail from Boston in the morning.

In both instances these individuals suggested matters deserving earnest consideration and which were given that by the local postoffice authorities. It so happens, however, that the local authorities cannot improve the situation materially. It would, therefore, be proper to have such matters presented at the postal convention in Boston.

In the event of business men of Lowell not being able to attend this convention in Boston, it is suggested that they put their complaints or suggestions for improvements, in writing and send them to the chamber of commerce, which will go into the matter with the local authorities first and then if advisable, see to it that it is brought before the postmaster general or his representatives in Boston.

The Looker-on knows that Postmaster DeWitt and his able corps of assistants will do all in their power to improve the local mail service, but of course, suggested improvements which they naturally have not seen should be brought to their attention. On the other hand there are conditions which must receive the attention of the officials in Washington.

Innovations in Postal Service
Heavy users of the mails throughout the country are constantly proposing radical changes. I shall not dare to rail them improvements, because that is a question.

One concession already granted by the postoffice department as a result of persistent propaganda and constant efforts on the part of direct-mail advertisers, mail-order houses and so on, is that mail may be addressed to rural routes by box numbers only. This obviates the necessity of compiling any suburban mailing list in sections reached by rural free delivery.

This regulation provides that the local postmaster is authorized to furnish to legitimate inquirers the number of rural delivery routes under his supervision with the number of boxes and box numbers on those routes. In this way, mail may be addressed impersonally to "Box 50 and 50, R.F.D. 1," or whatever it may be, and be carried in delivery, and entitled to the same consideration as mail addressed personally.

This regulation for Lowell offers the advantage to local merchants of developing the suburban field without the expense of compiling, purchasing or maintaining expensive mailing lists.

One Concession Suggests Another
Following the granting of this concession by the postal authorities in Washington, the suggestion that the same principles be applied to all mail routes, both rural and city, has come to the front and already been cordially presented to authorities. Their reply to the suggestion has been practically "Possibly, but not for a long time."

Mailing list houses would go out of business and there would be the very probable danger that mail carriers would become pack-horses and nothing more than messengers or bill peddlers for every business house in town and in fact be obliged to act as such for anybody in the world who should desire to send out mail matter subject to regulations addressed impersonally to routes and house numbers.

If in time this proposal should become effective all one would need to do to reach the entire population in any section of the country would be to secure from postmasters the numbers of routes, both city and rural, under their direction, and the house and box numbers on those routes, and then to send out his message by the ton, let's say.

WARM FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN THE HARDINGS AND COOLIDGES AT WASHINGTON

Incidents of Their Social Life—Coolidges Dry Joke as President of State Senate Recalled—20-Year Succession of Our Vice Presidents—Coolidge May Prove the Terror of Lawbreakers—Bay State Politics Affected

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 9.—Even though we follow the pace of ages, and cry "The King is dead; long live the King," the tribute of affectionate regard the country is paying the late President Harding is no less sincere. And that brief first comment of President Coolidge, "He was my chief—he was my friend," is echoed by the great mass of people who knew personally and loved and respected Mr. Harding.

Following the career of Mr. Harding from the day he entered the senate to the close of his term; through the heat and turmoil of the national conventions when he made the key-note speech and when he received the presidential nomination, one heard no slur on his honor or his trustworthiness. Even in the press gallery, which is more than 200 members represent all shades of political opinion—all shades of conservatism and radicalism, we have never even once heard the personal loyalty, the strict honesty, the unswerving steadfastness of purpose of the true warlike human qualities of Mr. Harding questioned. Differ with him as they may have done on political policies, these men never said him badly and who could not have more intimate view of the man himself, than others were privileged to enjoy, never doubted his integrity, his honor, and his true interest in all classes of men. They felt his death a personal loss to every American citizen.

And Mrs. Harding? No skeletons lurked in the Harding family closet. Remembering her reply to newspapermen who asked her to resign the presidency and praised her devotion to the president, one reads the secret of her hold on the American people, as well as on her personal friends. Mrs. Harding laughed and then said: "You must remember I was the wife of Harding, the newspaper man for many years; being the wife of the president makes no difference. I am doing only what every wife should do."

And what about President and Mrs. Coolidge? The answer is not hard to find. Washington sentiment is united that they are both truly worthy of the great honor and responsibility that has suddenly fallen on them. We can use the term "them" without hesitation, for under the pressure and confusion of years the wife of a president plays an important part in the administration, and it has been a pride and gratification to all who have been familiar with the regime of the White House and the daily doings of the vice president, during the Harding-Coolidge administration that the women holding the two highest official positions in the United States are women of culture, refinement, good judgment and common sense.

Many presidents have been "popular" with the country at large, so have the wives of many presidents, but it is a matter of doubt if any president and his wife have together enjoyed such unshaken popularity and good will of the entire nation as have been accorded President and Mrs. Harding by persons of all walks in life and of all political creeds.

Washington is predicting President and Mrs. Coolidge will hold the warm regard of the entire nation and carry out the policies of the Hardings in every possible way.

"The two families were warm friends. I recall a year or so ago, when I was writing an interview for The Sun with Mrs. Coolidge, her husband and home impressions of Washington life, and ended by saying: 'Is there any one feature of it that you can especially stress?' Mrs. Coolidge replied: 'Yes, the great courtesy and friendliness of President and Mrs. Harding. They have done everything possible to make things easy and pleasant for me. Mrs. Harding is a splendid woman. And you who have the privilege and honor of knowing personally President and Mrs. Coolidge are certain they would be father and mother second in office and political power than to have succeeded to the highest political position the world can offer, through the death of their beloved 'chief and friend' President Harding."

Terror to Lawbreakers

President Coolidge is a man of firm convictions and fearless in carrying them out. No laxity of purpose can be charged against him. Although courteous, when it comes to general conversation and so-called small talk, the president talks freely and well when he has something to say. It is his country's welfare, under his leadership, President Coolidge has made it known that he desires to retain the cabinet service of Secretary of War Weeks, and all other members, and just as he has sat in the cabinet councils for the Harding term, he will now take the lead of the table, and sit in conference with the Harding cabinet, as its chief officer. Mr. Coolidge has a true Yankee sense of both justice and humor. The latter is evident by a story that is going the rounds on an incident when he was president of the Massachusetts senate. In the heat of debate one man shouted to another: "You go to hell!" "Did you hear that Mr. President," shouted the offended member, "Ah yes," said Mr. Coolidge with a smile, "But I've looked up the law and you needn't go." Then Mr. Coolidge repeated the sentence to the speaker, the tense moment ended with a laugh, instead of a frown.

Washington and the country deplores the death of President Harding but rejoices that the national convention of 1920 selected a man of the Coolidge type for vice president.

Human Side of Coolidges

And what about the so-called "human" side of the Coolidges? Well, it was pretty well shown by three little incidents up on that Vermont farm when the news of Mr. Harding's death reached them. "He was my chief and my friend," said Mr. Coolidge in a voice showing deep grief and emotion. "Poor Mrs. Harding," sobbed Mrs. Coolidge; "it is too dreadful to talk about." Not one word of themselves. Then too, the incoming president selected his aged father to administer the oath that inducted him into the highest political office in the world. "Two just 'father and son,'" in the little old fashioned family living room in the Vermont hills—no thought of robes of justice of high courts—no thought of pomp and display, just assuming the high office with dignity, solemnity and with the God-speed of his loving old father. Also, that stonemason moment at the grave of his mother, in the little grassy crown cemetery churchyard, as the trip to Washington, as president of the United States was begun. Does any one doubt that under the reserve and retiring manner of the president, there beats a warm heart, filled with love of country, filial love and a reverence for the high office to which he has just been inducted? President Coolidge may be a man of few words and of unobtrusive manners, but his heart is true both in family and in public life.

The 20 Year Succession

A notable fact that comes to the front, regarding the elevation of vice presidents to the presidency, is that for periods of approximately 20 years apart, there has been such an instance and often brought about by tragic circumstances.

The assassination of Lincoln, was followed 20 years later by the assassination of Garfield—20 years later followed the assassination of McKinley, and now approximately a period of 20 years has passed and President Harding is taken from the White House by a sickness almost as sudden and unlooked for as were the assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley.

Massachusetts Politics Affected

Politicians in Washington of both major parties, are eagerly watching the effect the withdrawal of President Coolidge from the possible senatorial election next year will have in Massachusetts.

With Senator Walsh a strong candidate for re-election, it is thought by some that Mr. Coolidge would have made a fight for the seat; others take the stand that the withdrawal of Mr. Coolidge from senatorial aspirations, solidifies the republican party in the Bay State; still others believe it will clear the field for Mr. Walsh, as no other candidate would be as strong, as would have been the then vice-president. It's all a matter of speculation at this moment, and the republicans are all up in the air as to the best way to straighten out the tangle into which a sudden change of administration has thrown them.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET

Additional Appropriations
of the Mayor Approved by Finance CommitteeThe finance committee of the city council met Thursday night and recommended the passage of the supplemental budget submitted by the mayor and amounting to slightly more than $30,000. It was first presented to the committee at that time.
Other matters discussed included marking of downtown streets for crossing for pedestrians, the elimination of the street railway cross-over in front of the J.M.C.A. building in Merrimack street and a public reception, planned by the city, for Henry F.
Sullivan, English consul general, on his return to his home in Lowell.
The board of public service had returned to the council without action,
the proposition to lay out street crossings by white lines, saying no money
was available, but the committee felt
the board will have sufficient money
in its supplemental street maintenance appropriation to finance the work and therefore recommended the crossings
be laid out as soon as possible.
Street railway track changes in Merrimack street were discussed with Manuel E. McLaughlin, local division manager. The original proposition for the elimination of the cross-over
carried a cost to the city of $2500, which was considered too high. The committee put forward a proposition whereby the railway would stand the expense of ripping out the pavement necessary with the city paying for its replacement. This would considerably lessen the cost to the city. Manager McLaughlin was not able to reply to the proposition but will place it before the public trustees. A plan of the work contemplated calls for the widening of the corner of Dutton street
by taking out a section of the sidewalk which now stands between the
B. & M. railroad tracks and the street.
The matter will be discussed further at another meeting of the committee
next Monday night prior to the council session.
The committee voted unanimously to recommend to the mayor the man-dation of plans for a public reception to Henry F. Sullivan on his return home. No amount of money was mentioned.
City Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds was present at the meeting, with the following members of the committee:
Chairman James J. Gallagher, James
F. Hennessey, Daniel Costello, Frank
K. Stearns and Eugene A. Fitzgerald.

The Looker-On in Lowell

Continued

hope it never goes through. The postoffice workers are deluged now by
all kinds of worthless advertising matter which would increase to immeasurable proportions if the above radical
change should go through.
Carriers Not Advertising Distributors
John H. Wright, a noted commentator
and expert in mail advertising, says:
Some time ago, when stamping machines were endorsed by the post office department, we wrote an article on
"Good-bye to the Postage Stamp." Soon
we will be saying "Farewell to the Address." Within a year or two we expect to write an article on
"Good-bye to the envelope." Thus by the process of evolution and revolution
will not look back to the old mail bill days. We repeat what we have been preaching for years: Do not expect your prospect to think more of your piece of street-mail than you do.
If you leave off the stamp and leave off the address you say this to your customer: "We haven't the time to put on a stamp. We haven't the time to address an envelope. As a matter of fact, we don't know you. We are printing a ton or more of circulars. Here is yours." Who would want to be addressed in such fashion?
What the Association of National Advertisers would like to secure is the privilege of posting batches of mail wholly unaddressed as individual pieces but with the allotment for each city carrier route addressed to the carrier by number. The carrier would then be obliged to deliver one piece
of this mail to each member on his route. One reason for such a proposition in this country according to this association is that the system has already been adopted in Canada, New Zealand and some other countries,
where it is reported city mail is accepted when addressed simply to the "householder." Direct-mail advertisers are so anxious to increase their business advantages that they think nothing of making the every-day postman a house-to-house distributor.
Along the same line, the publishers of a number of leading monthly magazines and weekly periodicals of national circulation have asked the postoffice department to relieve them of the necessity of individually addressing their wrappers. Their idea is to furnish each carrier on a postal route
a list of magazine subscribers on his route. With this check list in hand each carrier would receive each week or each month a bundle containing the requisite number of copies of the periodical and would pass these out as he list.
The good way to kill these radical proposals would be to take a referendum vote of the postal carriers.

FRIDAY'S CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

The district court opened at 10:15 o'clock Friday morning and adjourned 15 minutes later. Judge Enright was on the bench and the following cases were called and disposed of: James O'Sullivan, drunkenness, former sentence of two months to the house of correction revoked. Frank Romanada, drunkenness, $15 fine. Edward A. Shaw, drunkenness, former sentence of three months to the house of correction, revoked.

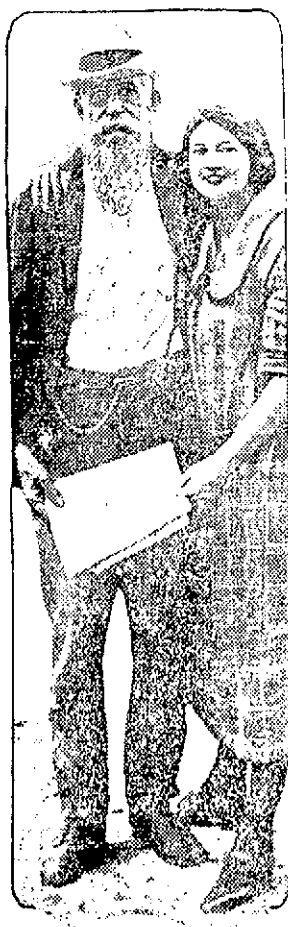

John Quinn, charged with keeping liquor, entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued for ten days, he being held on his own recognizance in the sum of $200. Joseph Simarek, admitted operating an automobile truck without a license and a fine of $10 was imposed. Another liquor case and one of drunkenness, were continued until today.

Sheriff, 80, Thinks It's Foolish To Lock His Prisoners in Jail

BY BOB DORMAN
(NEA Staff Writer)
CUMBERLAND COURT HOUSE, Va., August 11. (AP)—It is a country, now the scene of a spectacular murder trial, once a scene of a long-suffering old man who, at 80 years of age, was a sheriff and his longevity as evidence that he was not ordinarily a man of human life.

King Adams has been sheriff for the past 40 years, and his constant rule has been that he can have the law, and the law can have the sheriff.

"People make too much fuss about murder," says Adams, who has been in the spotlight since the trial of the "Gibson Girl" murder, as the result of the killing of Rev. E. S. Dixon, a minister.

The sheriff has his own methods of handling law violations, a method that does not work under conditions of the county in the matter of jail space.

"The county jail has but one prisoner during the past six years. At present the door swings wide open to all who care to enter. They are mostly released on their own recognizance or a nominal bail. 'Why should we put 'em in jail?' says Sheriff Adams. 'I know everybody in the county and nobody's in a hurry to leave. I just tell 'em to be in court on such a day, and that's all there is to it. If they don't come in, the judge is apt to be pretty hard on 'em.'"

"But I reckon I'll quit the job this fall. I've worked hard at it for 40 years and it's about time I began to ease up before I get old."

"How do I keep so active?" Well, just remember that of Virginia grows plenty of tobacco and corn. Adams, who is a veteran of the Civil war, is the patriarch of the county and has scores of relatives throughout it. He is talking of retiring in his grandniece, Lucy Adams, as a deputy sheriff.

The Lowell water works averted a serious water shortage in Dracut yes-

were pumped from the local mains in-ish a rapidly disappearing supply in

A disabled pump in the Dracut sys-

AGED WOMAN PAYS WITH HER LIFE FOR "NAGGING" HUSBAND
WHEN HE ASKED FOR 50 CENTS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., August 11.—Pellath said, according to them, that Mrs. Stephen Pellath, 72, today paid with her life for "nagging" her husband, aged 70, when he dunned her for 50 cents to get a shave. Her skull was fractured yesterday when another man, who said he begged of her her husband attacked her with an axe. He explained to the police his difficulty in obtaining money for the barber had caused him to lose his temper.

The Pellaths had been married 44 years. Stoop-shouldered by the burden of years, talking with faltering steps, the white haired old man was led from the kitchen of his home by the police. On a cot in his cell, with the tears streaming from his eyes, the police say he told of the quarrel for a hearing.

CITY ISSUES CALL FOR BIDS
FOR NEW CABLE FOR FIRE ALARM SIGNAL SYSTEM

Under the recommendation of the special committee of the city council that $12,000 should be spent in repairs and additions to the fire alarm system, the purchasing agent sent out a call for bids on the new cables and drums, to be submitted and opened on Tuesday, August 21.

This is one of the most important regulations issued by the city this year, as it means the temporary repair, at least, of a system which has caused a great deal of trouble and has constituted a menace to life and property.

Bids called for are 1500 feet of two inch, 450 feet of three inch and 300 feet of four inch. In total, the requisition calls for more than 27,000 feet of cable of various sizes.

Due to the varying market prices on lead, copper and rubber, it is not possible to approximate the amount of money involved in the call for

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(By the

her accustomed ways.

Gone were the silent crowds that streamed in town yesterday to pay their last respects to the late Warren
G. Harding, the gentle, unassuming newspaper editor, who became president of the United States.

The only physical reminders of yesterday's historic events were the mourning-draped streets and the military patrol in front of the modest village where the body was placed yesterday.

In the uncertain future, a mausoleum is to be erected to house the dust of the fourth Ohio president to die in office, and when completed, possibly on the top of an Indian mound near the

is home, sleeping time away near the mother at whose knee his first childish dream of greatness was prattled.

Before his tomb yesterday, as the chiming voxes of the choir sang softly among the trees, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," another tender, brave woman stood with aching heart, her veiled face lifted to the sky. A mo-dead husband's journey of life had

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President attended the funeral of President Harding. He motored directly from his special train to his temporary execu-

the policies which are to govern his conduct in office. During the interim since he took the oath of office a week engaged with the funeral ceremonies rule to take no definite action on any public question until the last obser-

HAZARD, Ky., Aug. 11.—Six deputy sheriffs who went from here Friday to check the Park on Lost Creek, where four prohibition agents had been surrounded by a band of moonshiners, returned to Hazard today with seven prisoners and six moonshiners after a long exchange of shots with moonshiners in a brief battle in which no one was wounded.

It was reported that the prohibition agents had been unable to escape a trap, and those of them had been killed by moonshiners were sent at rest by the deputy sheriffs on their return.

The federal men included Alex. Raymond, who previously had been disabled by a gunshot wound, E. L. Stewart, J. D.
Crawford and C. D. Morrison.

They had been surrounded by the moonshiners, who were firing along the Rea-thorpe border, but the shot had been lifted when the deputy sheriffs ordered. According to the federal officers, several shots were fired at them by the moonshiners before they succeeded in making the arrests.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MEHRMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Hearts Aflame" Spectacular Photoplay With Frank Keenan and Anna Q. Nilsson. Feature for First Part of Week.

"Hearts Aflame" announced as one of the biggest spectacular photoplays of recent years, is to be presented at the Mehrmack Square Theatre tomorrow, where it will begin a run of four days. It is directed by Robert Z. Leonard, released by Artcraft, and it adds considerably to the fame of this director of hit features.

One thing in particular has attracted widespread attention in connection with this picture, and that is a vivid and exciting love story which is said to surpass any of the kind ever before presented in motion pictures. In order to reproduce it for screen purposes, a first-class theater was rented and every scene photographed at from many angles. It is through this painstaking work that Anna Q. Nilsson is a favorite of the audience, and the episode of the love story and screen actress was particularly enjoyed. Her injuries kept her confined to a hospital for several weeks.

The latest film is one of several big scenes in the picture. There is, in addition, the shooting of a dam, and the rescue of a team of horses, which are presented in a most dramatic and exciting way. Another big scene is the burning of a hillside, the escape of a crowd of people, and the rescue of a crowd of people.

In addition to these thrills, there is a story of unusual interest. It concerns a young man who, having been injured in a fight, is taken to the Mehrmack Square Theatre, where he is treated by a doctor. The doctor, who is a friend of the young man, is a friend of the young man.

A photoplay based on the play which a few years ago was one of the hits of Broadway, is now being presented at the Mehrmack Square Theatre. The play, which was written by the author of the play, is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

"Success" is a story of the theatre, but unlike many of the type, it is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man. The story is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

HARRY C. MYERS and PAULINE STARKE
"A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT"
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

AT THE RIALTO THEATRE MON. TUES. AND WED.

Harry C. Myers as the famous Yankee, and Pauline Starke as the beautiful Queen Guinevere, are the stars of the new production of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" at the Rialto Theatre. The picture is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

THE RIALTO THEATRE

At the time Mark Twain, prince of American humorists, wrote "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," he was writing a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man. The story is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

Of course, in the film version, Mark Twain's story is gloriously modernized to correspond with present day machinery and science. Hence, when the Yankee awakes and finds himself confronted by a huge giant in an "Iron" suit, the fun begins.

Twain's story shows how a young man of today would act if he had lived in the days of King Arthur and his knights.

A SCENE FROM "THE SIGN OF THE CROSS" AT MEHRMACK SQ. THEATRE STARTING SUNDAY.

It is a picture for everyone, young and old alike. It is a real entertainment and you are cheering yourself out of a real good time. If you miss it, you will regret it. Other pictures on the bill include "Bar Cross War," a new western subject, a Mark Seaman comedy, "Falloo," and a Burton Holmes Travelogue.

STRAND THEATRE

George Beban comes to The Strand beginning Sunday for a four days engagement in "The Sign of the Cross."

Always noted for his remarkable impersonations of Italian kings, the star has also gained no small measure of screen fame from his splendid impersonations of children and their friends. In his latest offering, "The Sign of the Cross," he is playing the part of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

In the film, the Yankee shows the king that the modern world is a better place than the one he has known. He shows the king that the modern world is a better place than the one he has known.

Although "A Connecticut Yankee" is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man, it is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man. The story is a story of a young man who is a friend of the young man.

ORGANIZED RESERVES PAY FINAL RESPECT

The organized reserves of the U. S. Army gathered at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon to pay their final respect to President Warren G. Harding. The two men forming the delegation were Sgt. Leo Ward of Amesbury and Sgt. Lester Ward of this city.

It was announced last night at the headquarters of the reserves that there will be a special meeting of the organization next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at which business of importance will be taken up.

Sgt. Howard Mitchell has been ordered to active duty at Camp Deane and will report at that station on Monday morning.

One new recruit has been signed up for the organization. He is James Melton, who will be a member of the serving company of the 1st Infantry.

GIVE COOLIDGE A CHANCE—BORAH

Senator From Idaho Pleads That He Be Given Opportunity to Make Good

Logical Man for Republican Presidential Nomination in Next Campaign

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 11.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, here last night, said he believed President Coolidge was the logical man for the republican presidential nomination in the next campaign and called upon the public to "give him a chance to make good." The senator said:

"Late and circumstances have made Calvin Coolidge president. There are some very difficult problems demanding attention.

"The agricultural situation is extremely serious. The coal problem is my opinion, will soon be acute. Transportation also requires consideration, and the foreign situation will bring into view the real political issues plunging Europe into deep misery.

"If he makes good, or shows in the next few months that he is making good, he will certainly be nominated. What the people want is results. If Coolidge gives results, that is all there is to it. I think he is an able man. I want to see him given a chance to make good.

"No political party can survive the next campaign which does not have a clear, definite, constructive and inspiring program. If there ever was a time when the office should, and in my opinion, will seek the man, it is now. I have never seen so much political explosives lying around to be touched off as right now. The voters do not care two cents for parties or individuals. They want results. Give the man at the helm a chance."

Nation's Chief Laid to Rest

high places, where the restless, heady winds of ambition blow; home beneath Ohio soil for above him the vaulted roof is mantled with grass grown soft, home among the friends and neighbors of his youth, the kindly people of a kindly town. Time is ended for him, and the shouting and clamor that surround the great are done.

Soldiers On Guard

It was a long road to that silent vault about which there closed last night a guard of the citizen soldiery of his own state. There was endless ceremony of the nation's and the people's making to mark the way. But it ended simply, calmly and as the dead would have had it end.

Aside from the multitude that waited the long way from his father's home to the vault and those others close packed to make a living setting for funeral rites, there was not much to mark it as the burial of one who had held highest power in his realm. There were the sister services of the nation, the admirals and the generals who formed his honor escort, the friend and comrade who now is president in his stead, the colleagues of his grief-stricken cabinet. That was all, except at the last, distant gunfire as he came to his tomb and the soft tones of a bugle sounding a soldier requiem as the gates were closed.

Otherwise the funeral service was that of a simple and tough local citizen of Ohio. For all this seemed to have come to bid him farewell. Those whose number will never be known passed beside his casket and looked their last upon the dead face before the time for the last journey came.

From his father's house he went out again carried by the steadfast men who have stood constantly to guard a dead commander. No solemn music of bands or military pageant marked his going save the great flag of the president drooping in mourning and carried before him to the gates of the tomb.

President and Cabinet

In cars behind the simple hearse came President Coolidge and the cabinet, the friends and close kin, Chief Justice Taft, and General Pershing. Last to leave the memorial house was Mrs. Harding in black and with veil drawn close, and just ahead of her walked the old father, his face plainly showing the agony of his grief. Through the silent, flower-lined street the cortege passed and around the corner to the quiet cemetery. As it came towards the gates the guns spoke afar in honor. The vault stands ivy-wrapped and set back into the gentle hill with little space before it. So the funeral train was halted at a distance and the casket lifted down to be carried to a resting place before the open entrance of the tomb. Already a group of senators, who knew the dead president under the capitol dome, before he passed to the White House, were already gathered in waiting, in line across the roadway that runs before the entrance. With them stood the comrades of campaigning days, Ford, Edison and Firestone.

"Abide With Me" Is Sung

The cabinet family came to stand closer, at the foot of the casket with their new chief standing sorrowfully among them. The admirals in gleaming white lined the way to the left, with the little party of intimates and friends who made the Alaska journey that death broke so suddenly. Then came Dr. Harding with his bowed head, and then the brave widow walking to her place at the right of the casket, with Secretary Christian and the members of the grief-stricken family.

Within the shadow of the doorway of the vault, the churchmen took their place and from the shrubbery that screened them the choir sang "Lead Kindly Light."

Final Services Begun

The last service for Warren Harding had begun. Prayers followed, spoken by an old friend of the dead president, the Scriptural passages that hearten men in sorrow were read and again the choir sang the last hymn of this simple, reverent service "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and as the softly blending voices came to the last chords, Mrs. Harding slowly raised her veiled face and stood as though in prayer to him above that the dead husband who in a moment would be shut away from her forever, might know that peace beyond understanding, which God's mercy holds out to humanity at the last.

The voices died away and with lifted hand, Bishop Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church, pronounced the benediction.

"Now unto him that is able to keep us from falling, and to present us faultless before the presence of his glory, with exceeding joy, to the only wise God, Our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now, and forever more. Amen."

Nation Silent in Sorrow

The funeral party and the hundreds who ringed them about stood motionless and silent a moment. Then the soldiers and sailors and marines who have kept the honor watch all the way from San Francisco and who alone have carried his casket, stepped forward. Facing the tomb, they lifted it gently and slowly and bore it in through the shadowy doorway, and that moment the nation stood silent in sorrow.

Widow's Final Farewell

As the hearse came out, she leaned to whisper to Secretary Christian. Then she stepped forward on his arm to pass just within the ivy-covered doorway beyond which lay the flag-draped casket, hardly visible in the dim vault. She halted for a moment in this final farewell, then turned to walk slowly down the roadway to the waiting motor car that rolled her swiftly away.

After she had gone, President Coolidge with Mrs. Coolidge stepped to her place within the doorway they too standing for a moment. As they turned to pass out the great iron barrier was swung softly shut and Warren Harding was at home forever in the town he loved.

Down beyond where a green lawn stretched under the trees, were the white tents of the guardsmen. As the sorrowing company before the vault moved away to the waiting cars, the guardsmen again took their places before the vault, flanking with the beauty of the flowers that barked it about. And the hundreds who had stood to watch the simple ceremony that committed a simple American to the keeping of his God, drifted slowly away to leave him alone when dark fell for the sleep that will never end.

NO. CHELMSFORD CHURCH SERVICES

The residents of North Chelmsford united with the rest of the country yesterday in observing mourning day and accordingly practically all places of business throughout that section of the town were closed for the day. There was no public demonstration, but the Catholic residents of the village assembled in St. John's church at 1 o'clock and participated in impressive memorial services conducted by the pastor Rev. Francis P. Keane, hymns for the dead were sung and prayers were offered by the officiating clergyman. During the service Miss Helen M. Quigley presided at the organ.

The memorial service in the Central village was conducted at 2.30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. Rev. Charles H. Ellis officiated and the service consisted of the singing of hymns by a quartet and addresses by Walter Perkins, Rev. E. C. Bartlett and Rev. John G. Lovell, the latter, pastor of the Central Congregational church.

In the Forenoon there was a service at All Saints' church, conducted by Rev. Wilson Waters. Hymns were sung by the choir and prayers were offered by the pastor.

Back to Face Big Problems

Executive will be to select a secretary to the president to succeed George R. Christian, Jr., who resigned yesterday. Few other immediate changes are expected in the personnel of the administration. All of the cabinet members will stay for the present at least.

Today, however, he was faced with the need for appointing a successor to George R. Christian, Jr., who resigned yesterday as secretary to the president as soon as citizens of Marion, Ohio, had entombed the body of the man who had brought him into public life.

Mr. Coolidge to date has not given a hint of his possible choice, despite the fact that political activity in Washington had been bustling for several

Rev. Dr. Swank Delivers Prayer at Final Services for Late President

Prayer at Final Services for Late President

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rev. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor at Epworth M. E. church of which Mrs. Harding is a member, delivered the following prayer at funeral services for President Harding at the cemetery:

"Almighty God, father of our Lord Jesus Christ, giver of every good and every perfect gift, the father of the lights, in whom there is no variability or shadow of turning, we come with confidence to Thee even in such a time as this because we know that Thou art not only a God of greatness and of power, but also a God of mercy and of love."

"We thank Thee for our hard nation and for Thy guiding hand upon it from its inception until this hour. We thank Thee for what this man, our friend and brother, has meant in the progress and development of our nation. We feel that he, in imitation of Him whom he called Master and Lord, has laid down his life in the service of his country and we believe that he has received Thy 'well done.'"

"May Thy blessing rest upon him who assumes the vast responsibility of taking the helm and guiding the future of this land of ours. May Thy blessing rest upon our nation and its people and upon our city in this time of great bereavement. Give Thy blessing to the aged father, who offered his own life in the service of his country and now has given this noble son. Sustain and support him in this great trial and sorrow, and guide his feet in the paths of peace until his way shall end in the land beyond the grave where he can meet again the dear ones whom he has loved long since and lost a while."

"Bless the other members of the family and may they feel Thy near. May Thy special blessing rest upon Mrs. Harding, the wife of our loved dead who lives to mourn the loss of this devoted companion who journeyed with her up the steps of life until they reached the heights together. May she now hear Thy voice and say, 'Fear thou not for I am with thee; be not dismayed for I am thy God, I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right arm of my righteousness. May she know that the eternal God is her refuge and underneath are Thy everlasting arms.'"

"When these solemn rites are over and she goes back to walk the ways of life alone, may she realize that she is not alone for Thou hast said to all: 'The children I will never leave, nor forsake thee, and may her noble example of confidence and trust in God be an inspiration to all those who are called to walk with her the 'via dolorosa.'"

"May the peace of God descend upon all hearts and may we all learn to live, not for ourselves, but for each other and for the good that we may do, as did this noble man and woman."

days with the names of Edward T. Clark, who served him as secretary while he was vice president, and Benjamin F. Felt, former Boston newspaperman, now in the employ of Frank W. Stearns of Boston, and an intimate friend of the Coolidges.

The resignation of Brig. Gen. Sawyer, as personal physician to the president may reach the temporary White House in the New Willard later any day. Mr. Coolidge also has been silent on the appointment, but Major James F. Cougill, medical corps officer stationed in Washington, who previously has attended Mr. Coolidge, was selected to accompany him to Marion.

Mr. Coolidge started back to Washington late yesterday and citizens who had restrained themselves in respect to the memory of Mr. Harding acclaimed him as he passed through Akron, Ohio, and Newcastle, Pa., in response to applause of those who gathered around his private car. Mr. Coolidge appeared on the platform with the first lady of the land and was loudly cheered.

Advocates of immediate action have based their pleas on the necessity of quickly enacting legislation to help the farmers in the marketing of their crops and to save greatly interested. Those adverse to the idea believe nothing can be gained from an extra session at this time.

Before Mr. Coolidge went to Marion, Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor senator from Minnesota, told him that congress should be convened, but on the same day Representative John M. Nelson, republican, of Wisconsin, a member of the progressive bloc said he would do so. Other members have expressed similar divergent views.

Representative Young, republican, North Dakota, called on the president Thursday and told him that action was necessary immediately in his territory to save a very serious situation. Farmers, he said, were in a desperate plight with wheat selling below the cost of production. He also said that part of the country was greatly interested in coal legislation. Revival of the United States grain corporation, was favored, he said, as one of the remedies possible.

Numerous petitions had gone to the president from the northwest. Mr. Young said, urging congressional action.

Several of those who want an extra session already have placed their views before the president and those who oppose the idea also have been heard. But to none, so far as can be learned, has he indicated a decision.

LATE PRESIDENT'S WIDOW LEAVING FUNERAL TRAIN

AT THE HEARSE DOOR BEFORE LEAVING THE STATION

The Harding coffin in the picture above, has just been placed in the hearse, the Stars and Stripes have been thrown over it and the flag's folds are being arranged in readiness to close the door for departure from the Marion railroad station for the home of the late president's father, where the neighbor, paid their final respects. Military and naval guards are seen in the foreground.

GIVEN TO HISTORY

Never perhaps in the history of this republic has a day of national mourning been so generally and so sincerely observed as was yesterday in honor of the nation's beloved chief whose remains were laid away in his final resting place in his home city of Marion, Ohio. It is said to be a noble trait in any man to love his native land and the town or city in which he makes his home and in no man was this trait stronger than in the late Warren G. Harding. He had repeatedly said that when he laid down the cares and responsibilities of public office, it would be to him a great source of happiness, if he could return to mingle with the humble folks at home and still retain their cordial friendship and respect.

During his service at the White House, he had so endeared himself to the people of the entire nation, by his tender solicitude for the poor and by his devotion to the interests of all classes, that the love and respect entertained for him at Marion, Ohio, became general, and so it was, that in his passing, every citizen felt the loss of a personal friend, a president whose heart beat true to the highest hopes and ideals of the nation.

Today the late president is at home with the folks in Marion, there to rest—

"Till the stars grow old.

The sun grows cold.

And the leaves of the judgment book unfold."

There in his native state of Ohio will he be associated in death with the seven presidents whom that state has given to the nation and especially with the four others whose mortal remains are there entombed.

It President Harding had done nothing else than to soften and humanize the hearts of the people as he did, he would have rendered a unique service; but he also left his impress upon history in putting an effective check upon the international competition in naval armaments, thereby reducing the potential probabilities and destructiveness of war should it again break upon the war torn world.

Warren G. Harding now belongs to history and of him can no unkind word be said, but rather that he was the apostle of a great nation—

"... Growing in strength and in sweetness.

Pacing to one indivisible soul

To dazzle the world with a splendid completeness

Mightily single, immovably whole."

SUPPLEMENTARY BUDGET

The supplementary budget is now up for the consideration of the city council. The measure allowance made for some of the departments at the beginning of the year makes the supplementary budget necessary. Mayor Donovan is to be commended for his courage in meeting the situation in man fashion and in having the entire expenditures for the year included in the year's tax levy. If he were playing the political game, he would hold back the supplementary budget until after the tax rate was declared. That would give a misleading tax rate, as part of the expenditure for the present year would go to increase next year's rate. The mayor is not playing any flim-flam game, and neither is he drawing upon the prior revenue account which is held intact as a provision to meet unforeseen emergencies. His policy of economy is securing satisfactory results for the money expended which is all the taxpayers expect.

THE RENT GOUGERS

In the matter of rent-gouging there is one type of offender who is responsible for a great part of the trouble and extortion and it is difficult to get at him without in a measure also punishing others for his inordinate greed. We refer to the operator who leases property for a period of years or even for one year and who immediately proceeds to double the rent, leaving the occupants no choice but to pay so long as they cannot find suitable quarters to which they can move.

It is understood that the proposed investigation of the assessment of property is aimed very largely at property owners who have not been satisfied with the rates. Now will the city council reach the speculator who has leased the property and who during the term of the lease, will be the landlord who will fix the rents and "milk" the property to the utmost extent without even making the slightest repairs. The Sun is inclined to believe that the city council has been very lenient in the past. The owners of the property have been called for the purpose of considering a proposed ordinance in leasing the property, which will be it to unscrupulous parties who are not deterred by the city council's action. It is estimated that Governor Cox will bring up the "rent question" at the government conference of the state.

Whether the assessment can be made to curb this form of extortion is doubtful. If it increases the assessment of the property to correspond with the revenue, it will be punishing the owner and creating a condition under which high rents will become permanent. There is here a particular evil in our community that requires special treatment and that is particularly difficult to handle. It is remarked that there is a law regarding that the rent of any piece of property cannot be increased more than 10 per cent in any one year and it does not seem that any of the rent gougers ever heard of such a law.

There are other cases in which rent is increased in a very short time, but with the excuse of a year and a day, particularly in the case of the rent of the city hall. At the present time they are quite exorbitant. The assessment can decrease the value of such property so that the tax will be less and the rent will be less. It is suggested that the city council should see how such an ordinance can be made to apply to all parties and be strictly enforced.

FRIENDLY GOVERNORS

The New England governors who occupy the six gubernatorial chairs, are perhaps better acquainted every day. It has not been customary for these governors to meet and discuss important affairs of state more especially, perhaps, the affairs of the New England states.

But today the newspapers contain items of frequent friendly visitations will be 214 million bushels more than

In 1922 according to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome. The gains are made in Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia. The crop in North America, which includes our country and Canada, will be practically the same as a year ago. Yet our wheat prices tumble, which illustrates how we are influenced by world conditions. A United States of the world is rapidly being created in economics as a result of the system of supplying our material wants.

Chump wheat will ruin many farmers, but not the general farming industry. The President's Gazette, an agricultural weekly, points out that "less than 7 per cent of the value of farm crops and livestock last year was represented by the American wheat crop. That percentage had seldom been higher than 7."

The one-crop farmer takes an awful chance. Many years were required to teach the south the wisdom of diversified crops. But the south is well on its way toward learning the lesson. No city can enjoy uniform prosperity if it depends upon any one industry. The same rule holds good with the farmer in regard to crops.

CHECKING STOCK SALES

Taking a cue from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania now has a "blue sky law" at bat, and equipped with teeth that surpass in sharpness, perhaps, the "blue sky law" now on the statute book of our state.

Numerous prior attempts to have a statute of this kind enacted in Pennsylvania, were always successfully combatted by private banking interests, who were apprehensive lest something might be embodied in a measure which would be detrimental to their own business. Naturally the purpose of the new Pennsylvania "blue sky law" is to prevent unscrupulous dealers and salesmen from selling worthless stocks and bonds to unsophisticated persons of both sexes. The world is full of them—one being born every minute—and the "blue sky law" helps to protect them.

It is very hard sometimes to keep some people from throwing their money away on the wildest of wildest stock-gambling games. There are new avenues for speculation opening almost every day in the week. If people will stop and realize that it is difficult to get something for nothing, "blue sky" enactments on the part of our legislative bodies, federal and state, might not be necessary.

HONORING A HERO

President Coolidge did a gracious act in bestowing a World War hero, a Congressional medal of honor man who had come to Washington to attend the funeral of his dead commander. He marched in the procession from the White House behind the hearse and was surprised later on receiving a message stating that the president, his new commander, would like the honor of meeting him. They met and President Coolidge invited him to join the party that escorted the dead chief to his old home. The hero was Michael A. Donahoe, of Haverstraw, N. Y., and the heroism for which he was honored consisted in making six trips in broad daylight under a hail of bullets to rescue wounded bodies strewn on the top of a hill. It is said to have been one of the most death-defying stunts recorded during the entire war.

OUR MEMORIAL EXERCISES

From the minute the first intimations of President Harding's death were received until his body was entombed at Marion, O., Mayor Donovan saw to it that the city paid all due honor to the nation's beloved chief. First came the tolling of the bells, then the marching of the flags on city buildings, the mayor's proclamation, the action by the city council and finally the memorial exercises, so planned by the mayor and everybody else who had anything to do with the arrangements. In honor due tribute to the dead president, the city and the people collectively showed their love and reverence for the illustrious dead with the most sincere and patriotic devotion and solemnity.

FUTURE

Strife cars will soon disappear entirely from a New York and be replaced by buses, predicts one city's police expert. Dr. John A. Harris, the city's police expert, said that the strife cars will soon disappear entirely from a New York and be replaced by buses, predicts one city's police expert. Dr. John A. Harris, the city's police expert, said that the strife cars will soon disappear entirely from a New York and be replaced by buses, predicts one city's police expert.

GASOLINE

Gasoline prices have been a source of trouble. The tax averages close to two cents a gallon. In West Virginia it is higher, three cents. In most of the states the tax is about that much. People are unable to make the gasoline tax pull is that the money can be used for motor roads, or it least part of it.

In the same reasoning, pedestrians should be taxed to pay for sidewalks instead of making property owners pay the bill.

DOUBLED

Our country's foreign trade has doubled in ten years, boasts the economist of a big New York town.

Well hardly. What has happened is that prices have doubled in ten years. Measured in bushels, tons, barrels and the like, our foreign trade has been pretty much about the same as usual, year in, year out. When most of us think we're witnessing the great industrial growth, we're really seeing only the inflation of an elastic dollar.

Yes, the United States Steel company will double the 12 hour day if the government will let down the immigration laws so to have the company a chance to secure additional men and then stand for an increase of 15 per cent of the price of steel products already very high.

Whales acquire barnacles the same as do ships, but the kind of barnacles is different. The barnacles on whales do not seem to cause much discomfort and probably no whale will ever go into drydock to be scraped.

Will Move Town

The government plans to move the entire town of American Falls, Idaho, to a new town site to make way for the construction of the gigantic American Falls reservoir, a $2,000,000 project, which will cover 30,000 acres. It will be the largest irrigation reservoir in the country.

Teachers' Union

A triple wedding took place at Englewood, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tower when their daughters, Miss Janita and Miss Lucille, became the brides respectively of Bert S. Leach and W. Russell Wells, and of John T. Harold. Tower, married Miss Arzella McDonald. Each of the six principals is a teacher.

Probably Worth It

Workmen were redecorating the great actor's house, and he asked some of them if they would like to see his performance at the Phoenix theatre. He gave them free tickets. At the end of the week the famous tragedian happened to catch sight of the men who had decorated his house. "After each man appeared this time Thursday night, four hours of time at the Phoenix theatre, $4."

The Procrastinator

"What would your father do if I told him I wanted to marry you?" asked the young man. "I'd refer the matter to my father," replied the girl. "And what would your father do?" said he hopefully. "I'd refer the matter to the young man who proposed to me and was so anxious to get married."

Germ Worries Cure

A healthy baby was seated in a pool on the beach. Now and then he would grab some of the sand and put it into his mouth. The mother was sitting by reading. A nervous gentleman remarked to the mother with a little perturbation, "I don't like to see a baby do that." "Oh, yes," replied the mother brightly. "He did it all last season. Sometimes he even swallows a little. It's a germ cure."

Grasped the Opportunity

Samuel Snopes had made a fortune. Most of it had been acquired by the sale of a huge hoard of bottles. He wished to impress upon everybody with the fact that he was a man of great wealth. He was in a hurry to get to the city. He was in a hurry to get to the city. He was in a hurry to get to the city.

Free State Telephone

Extensive improvements in the telephone system of the state of New York are planned by the authorities of the Free State. It is proposed to introduce automatic switching in Dublin and other large towns, and a number of underground cables are now being laid. The establishment of the Irish Free State telephone system in the south of Ireland was exacted and operated by the British government. When turned over to the new government, it included only about 20,000 telephones, of which over half were in the city of Dublin. It is estimated that the new system will include 100,000 telephones by January 1, 1924, which will be a great improvement on the old system.

In Adversity

In sorrow bowed the heart oft aches to breaking. With cross and with losses weighted down, Thank God for this; both cross and loss are transient. Still shines somewhere the everlasting crown. Grief follows grief, and yet we live and strive; for sorrow's storm, ere we face the blast.

BAND WILL BE UNABLE TO GO TO CAMP

Some time ago authority was received at the local office of the organized Reserve to send the 10th Field Artillery band to camp for a two weeks' tour of training. The band has found that it will be unable to go to camp, and the war department has authorized that the funds set aside for its pay be used in the training of non-commissioned officers of the Reserve.

All local non-commissioned officers of the Reserve who desire to take this training are requested to notify the officials in charge of the Reserve, 288 Hubbard building.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Now that the nation has paid fitting tribute at the pier of its late chief, and he and his family have been laid to rest, those of us who have been touched by the sorrows of death, can well appreciate the terrible ordeal that his widow must now endure. Alone with her sorrow, this brave little woman may now release the tears she held back until now. Her life is a story of a man who lived for his country and his people.

The nation has paid fitting tribute at the pier of its late chief, and he and his family have been laid to rest, those of us who have been touched by the sorrows of death, can well appreciate the terrible ordeal that his widow must now endure. Alone with her sorrow, this brave little woman may now release the tears she held back until now. Her life is a story of a man who lived for his country and his people.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem A PRAYER

Lord, when my burdens are hard to bear
I shall whimper at times, no doubt,
I shall groan, perhaps, in my deep despair
When my courage and grit run out.
For life, at times, is a torturer's rack
Indicting such bitter pain,
Thou canst not blame if my will shall crack
Under the cruel strain.

I ask thy pity, dear Lord, when I Am broken and hurt and weak,
When under a black and sullen sky
I stray from the path I seek;
But scourge me, Lord, if with craven heart.
I struggle not back again,
To play a worthy and manly part
In a world that was made for men.

I cannot always maintain a smile
When all of my dreams go wrong,
I shall wince a little once in a while
At the jeers of the mocking throng;
But help me, Lord, when to earth I'm hurled
And roweled by fortune's guff,
To rise in the face of a rock-eyed world
And laugh, and laugh and laugh!

Man Found Wounded Near Tracks

LOWELL, Aug. 11.—Tony Savino of Hingham, a laborer, was found early today on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad between Nantasket and Kilby street crossing, suffering from knife wounds and with three bullets in his body. At a hospital it was said he would die. Some time later two men walked into the Hall police station bleeding from many cuts and asked for first aid treatment. They admitted, the police said, that they had been in a fight with a third man. They were placed under arrest and sent to a hospital. Their names were not ascertained.

Brewer, Convicted of Fraud, Appeals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—William S. Brewer, convicted in the federal courts in New York of having used the mails to defraud in connection with the publication of a magazine represented to have been issued with the approval of an organization of former service men, has applied to the supreme court for a review of his case. The charge upon which Brewer was convicted was that he sent a copy of his magazine to Newton D. Baker, while secretary of war, seeking to obtain favorable comment from him for advertising purposes upon the representation that veterans of the World war not only approved it, but that disabled veterans were receiving part of the profits derived from its publication.

Stranded American Tanker Floated

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The American tanker Pawnee, which grounded at Nidingen, Sweden, has been floated with the assistance of the steamer Benjamin Wrester and has arrived at Gollander under her own steam, says a message to Lloyd's today.

Four Communists Killed in Clash

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Four communists were killed and 40 others injured in Ratibor, Upper Silesia, while the police were attempting this morning to clear the streets in which the communists were demonstrating, says a Central News despatch from Berlin.

Quarter Century Ago

From the old Sun:

"The navy department has made public the report as to the part taken by the marine guard of the battleship Brooklyn in the action which resulted in the destruction of Admiral Cervera's squadron, July 3."

In describing the gallant service of the men, the following tribute is paid to a Lowell man: "Non-commissioned Officer J. J. Manning showed excellent qualities in the management of the men and battery. First Sergeant Manning rendered valuable aid in supervising the badly shattered detachments of the guard."

The report was issued by Commander Schley in command.

An $18 Tax Rate

The old Sun:

"Just $18 per thousand, the tax rate for 1923 was announced the highest for 24 years, except in one year when the same figure was reached. With war taxes, hard times, the excessive land and other miseries, comes the business administration of Mayor Bennett with an $18 tax rate for 1923, the highest with one exception in 20 years, the exception in 1855 being also $18."

"There was one new item of expenditure, the appropriation of $500,000 for the textile school, but this was doubly offset by the decrease in the state and county tax."

There was also a large net gain in valuations, showing that the increase in due to the expenditures of the administration."

Corporation Tax Cases

Says the old Sun:

"The Tremont and Suffolk mills claim for an abatement of taxes is expected to be called into court very soon."

"It is of great importance and involves $500,000. The company calls for a rebate of that amount and the city refuses to grant it. It is now for the courts to decide the question. The case will be a test one and if the Tremont and Suffolk company is successful, other companies will follow suit."

That was the beginning of a long and expensive legal battle between the city and the corporations in some of which reductions were made.

Ayer Plmie to Black Rocks

Twenty-five years ago the J. C. Ayer company, conducted a great picnic from Lowell to Black Rocks at the mouth of the Merrimack river, going by electric cars to Haverhill and there taking the steamer Merrimack to the beach. Fully 400 persons took the trip which was under the direction of Alfred E. Rose who was then in charge of the Ayer factory. All the heads of departments and their families attended, and looking over the list, it is rather sad to realize that more than half the officials who attended the picnic on that occasion have since passed away. Mr. Rose, however, is still alive, but engaged in business in a large city in the middle west.

When that picnic was held there was a great dancing pavilion near the mouth of the Merrimack which was burned down many years ago and has not been rebuilt. There is a prospect, however, that in the near future some large building of the kind suitable for picnic parties will be provided near the mouth of the Merrimack and the picnic will be called Black Rocks.

Black Rocks. The Salisbury Beach Association have laid the lines of a new street to be built probably next fall, running parallel to the north bank of the Merrimack from the present location to the vicinity of what is known as Father's toothpick, which is a spike protruding from a church rising from the water as a danger signal to mariners and marking a cluster of rocks near the north side of the river.

Some years ago, the boat landing and street railway line connecting with it were swept away by high tides during the winter and were never rebuilt. The car line has been abolished and a macadam road laid from the center to the vicinity of the jetty. This road is lined with entrapments on both sides and is known as the South End boulevard. The Beach Associates would readily restore the boat landing if any enterprising company would undertake to run the excursion steamer during the summer season. The sail down the river from Haverhill was one of the most beautiful imaginable as the water in the summer time is invariably calm and the scenery on either side exceedingly grand. In spite of the increase in traffic by motor vehicles, it is believed that the excursion steamer from Haverhill to the beach would be very popular and that for the summer months, at least, it would be well patronized. The question, however, lies in the difficulty of procuring a steamer and getting the enterprise well established.

OLD TIMER.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET

Additional Appropriations
of the Mayor Approved by Finance CommitteeThe finance committee of the city council met Thursday night and recommended the passage of the supplemental budget submitted by the mayor
and amounting to slightly more than $30,000. It was first presented to the council Tuesday night and referred to the committee at that time.Other matters discussed included marking of downtown streets for
crossing for pedestrians, the elimination of the street railway cross-over in front of the Y.M.C.A. building in Merriam street and a public reception, financed by the city, for Henry E.
Sullivan, English channel swimmer, on his return to his home in Lowell.The board of public service had returned to the council without action,
the proposition to lay out street crossings by white lines, saying no money
was available, but the committee felt
the board will have sufficient money
in its supplemental street maintenance
appropriation to finance the work and
therefore recommended the crossings
be laid out as soon as possible.Street railway track changes in Merrimack street were discussed with Manville E. McCormick, local division manager. The original proposition for
the elimination of the cross-over
carried a cost to the city of $2500,
which was considered too high. The
committee put forward a proposition
whereby the railway would stand the expense of riving out the pavement necessary with the city paying for its replacement. This would considerably lessen the cost to the city. Manager McCormick was not able to reply to the proposition but will place it
before the public trustees. A plan of the work contemplated calls for the widening of the corner of Sutton street
by taking out a section of the sidewalk which now stands between the
B. & M. railroad tracks and the street.The matter will be discussed further
at another meeting of the committee
next Monday night prior to the council session.The committee voted unanimously to recommend to the mayor the inauguration of plans for a public reception to Henry E. Sullivan on his return home.
No amount of money was mentioned.City Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds was present at the meeting, with the following members of the committee:
Chairman James J. Gallagher, James
F. Hennessy, Daniel Cosgrove, Frank
K. Stearns and Eugene A. Fitzgerald.

hope it never goes through. The post-office workers are deluged now by
all kinds of worthless advertising matter which would increase to immeasurable proportions if the above radical
change should go through.

Carriers Not Advertising Distributors

John H. Wright, a noted commentator
and expert in mail advertising, says:
Some time ago, when stamping machines were endorsed by the post office department, we wrote an article on
"Good-bye to the Postage Stamp." Soon
we will be saying "Farewell to the Address." Within a year or two we expect to write an article on
"Good-bye to the envelope." Thus by
the process of evolution and revolution
will go back to the old hand bill days. We repeat what we have been preaching for years: Do not expect your prospect to think more of your piece of direct-mail than you do.
If you leave off the stamp and leave off the address you get this to your customer: "We haven't the time to put on a stamp. We haven't the time to address an envelope. As a matter of fact, we don't know you. We are printing a ton or more of circulars. Here is yours." Who would want to be addressed in such fashion?What the Association of National Advertisers would like to secure is the privilege of posting batches of mail, wholly unaddressed as to individual pieces but with the allotment for each
city carrier route addressed to the carrier by number. The carrier would then be obliged to deliver one piece
of this mail to each member on his
route. One reason for such a proposition in this country according to this
association is that the system has already been adopted in Canada, New Zealand and some other countries,
where it is reported city mail is accepted when addressed simply to the "householder." This is a radical advance in mail advertising. It raises business advantages that they think nothing of making the very-day postman a house-to-house distributor.About the same time the publishers of a number of leading monthly magazines and weekly periodicals of national circulation have asked the post-office department to follow them in the necessity of individually addressing their wrappers. Their idea is to attach each carrier on a postal route
a list of magazine subscribers on his route. With this check list in hand
each carrier would deliver each week or each month a list of the containing the desired number of copies of the periodical and would pass these out as per list.The good way to kill these radical proposals would be to take a referendum vote of the postal carriers.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 23

Jack then grabbed the hoot and it took him rapidly through the water. "Don't hold on too long," warned the water mite, "or you will be pulled out of the water." "I think it is time that I go back to land, anyway," replied Jack. So he hung on tight to the hoot.

Up he went until he could almost see the fisherman who was pulling him toward a rowboat. Then the fishing broke and Jack once more slipped down to the bottom of the sea. This time he landed right beside the diver's suit he had stepped out of when he met the water mite.

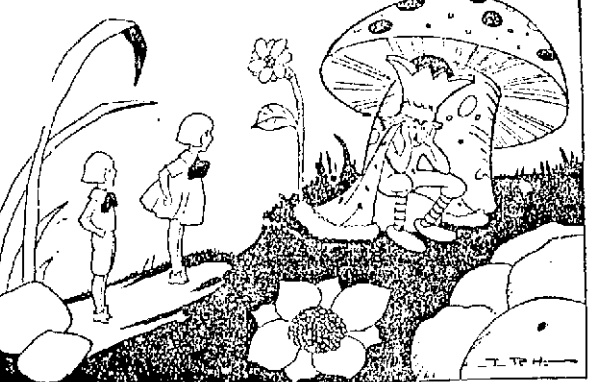

Flip had caught up with Jack and was standing by his master's side. "How would you like to go back to the land again?" asked Jack of his pet dog. Flip barked and wagged his tail. "All right," said Jack, and he started putting on the diver's suit as Flip looked on. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

WHAT SNOOKUMS SAID

THEY FOUND KING SNOOKUMS SITTING UNDER A TOADSTOOL

"Hello, we'll help to find the lost Pea Wee," said Nick when the Fairy Queen told the twins that she had had a letter from Snookums, the tiny king of the Pea Wees, asking for help.

"That's fine," nodded her majesty, smiling. "I knew you would do it. But remember you and Nancy will have to wish yourselves as small as the Pea Wees themselves if you are going to hunt for them."

"Oh, we don't mind that," said Nancy. "All right," nodded the good queen. "You may start right away. Pea Wee Land is just under the burdock patch just beyond Farmer Brown's squash garden."

"Goodbye," called Nick.

"And away they went on their new adventure.

Pretty soon they came to the burdock patch and without any trouble found Pea Wee Land at once.

They found King Snookums sitting under a toadstool, looking as sad as a fallen cake. His crown was on one side of his head and his robes looked terrible.

"Oh, I'm so worried," he groaned. "You lost 20 of my subjects since last Sunday afternoon."

"Well, and then for you," cried Nick.

"Don't worry any more. We're here! We're Nancy and Nick, the Twins, you know. The Fairy Queen sent us."

"You don't say so?" cried King Snookums, brightening at once. "I'm much obliged to meet you. Sit down and we'll go over everything. I'll give you a description of my missing subjects. It will help you to find them."

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Hornedaday St. John, a resident of 124 W. Main St., was struck by an automobile on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard at a point near Belle Grove early this morning and sustained a fractured ankle, which was treated at St. John's hospital. The driver of the car, Max E. Traub, of 519 Hawthill St., Lawrence, stated that St. John, who was walking in the road, inched against the right front wheel of the machine and was knocked to the ground.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE ALARMS

There were but two alarms yesterday and they were for minor blazes. The first was a still alarm sent in at 1:17 o'clock in the afternoon for a slight blaze in the flooring of the Allen street bridge. The other was a telephone alarm sent in at 8:05 p. m. for a dump fire on the old Fair grounds in
